SAYS LOAN COLLECTORS WERE ROUGH

Mrs. Betty Jean Cunningham, 22, holds her niece, Pamela Campbell, as she tells reporters how two loan company collectors roughed her up in a collection attempt. According to Deputy Prosecutor Forrest P. Jones of Indianapolis, Mrs. Cunningham said the two collectors forced their way into her home when she refused to answer their knock. She said one of the men then knocked her to the floor and kicked her. Her niece, Pamela, witnessed the incident, Mrs. Cunningham asserted. Both of the men have been charged with malicious trespass and disorderly conduct, and an assault and battery charge was added to the charges against the collector Mrs. Cunningham said knocked her down. Allies Accept Red Proposal For Post-Truce Conference

U. N. Delegates Approve Communist Plan With Certain Reservations; Allies Want Meet Limited To Korean Problems

Munsan, Korea, Sunday Feb. 17. —(AP)— The Allies today accepted—with reservations—the Red proposal for a post-armistice political conference.

Vice Adm. Turner Joy, senior Allied envoy, told the Reds in effect that U. N. command would accept the proposal if the Reds in turn would agree to the Allied interpretation of it.

A pooled dispatch from Panmunjom said Joy made it clear the Allies still wanted the scope of the conference limited to Korean problems.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il first asked for a 35-minute recess, then adjournment until tomorrow, to study the conditional Allied repiy.

Joy made Allied acceptance contingent on:

1. Red understanding that the recommendations would be made to the United Nations as well as to the Republic of Korea.

2. In accepting the term "foreign forces," the Allies were doing so "on the basis of your statement that this term means 'non-Korean forces.' "

3. The Reds should clearly understand "that we do not construe the

O'Conor Urges Congress To Reject Truman's Plea For Cleanup Powers

Washington, Feb. 16. —(AP)— The Truman plan to let government housecleaner Newbold Morris grant immunity to witnesses is "fraught with the greatest danger," Senator O'Conor (D.-Md.) declared today.

O'Conor, former chairman of the senate crime committee, urged that congress reject President Truman's request for legislation clothing Morris with such powers.

"It is my definite belief," O'Conor said in a statement, "That this departure from regular practice is unnecessary and would be fraught with the greatest danger, regardless of the high character of the individual vested with such great powers."

The constitution says a person cannot be forced to testify against

Louisiana Governor Will Be Elected In Tuesday Primary

New Orleans, Feb. 16. —(AP)— Louisiana chooses a governor Tuesday in a showdown between Gov. Earl K. Long and a coalition of his major political opponents.

The actual candidates are former State District Judge Carlos Spaht of Baton Rouge, the Long candidate, and Appeal Judge Robert Kennon of Minden in North Louisiana, an independent. They topied a nine-candidate field in the Jan. 15 Democratic primary, and their runoff is tantamount to election in one-party Louisiana.

Spaht was a politically unknown judge until Gov. Long hand-picked him as his successor. The governor is barred by the state constitution from succeeding himself for another four year term.

Kennon ran in the first primary without the support of any major political organization or endorsement of any daily newspaper. In previous political campaigns he ran third to Gov. Long and former Gov. Sam Jones in the first 1948 gubernatorial primary and later the same year he lost the U. S. senate race to Sen. Russell Long.

Senator Long, son of the late Huey, split with his uncle, the governor, in the race and supported U. S. Rep. Hale Boggs of New Orleans, taking the stump for him.

FAURE REQUESTS DELAY IN PLANS

Premier Wants Treaty Before German Troops Recruited

Paris, Sunday, Feb. 17. —(AP)— The French national assembly early today approved the idea of a united west European army, provided German recruiting is delayed until the whole plan has been approved and goes into effect.

Paris, Feb. 16. —(AP)— Premier Edgar Faure, angling in the national assembly for a vote of confidence on his unified European army plan, asked tonight for a delay in recruiting west German troops until the treaty to form the army has been ratified.

Faure announced his plan in a new resolution which he presented to the assembly for a confidence vote after a day of repeated adjournments.

The new resolution replaces the one originally presented, which met opposition from the powerful Socialists. The Socialists have advocated a delay in German recruiting.

The United States' whole plan to deter Russian aggression with a strong and united Europe faced a crisis on the eve of important international meetings in London and Lisbon.

The French appeared to be giving only a half - hearted and conditional support for the army pro-

Division Leaves Korea

Tokyo, Sunday, Feb. 17.—(AP)—The U. S. 24th Infantry Division, first American outfit to enter the Korean war, has returned to Japan, General Ridgway's headquarters announced today.

The 24th is currently assigned a training mission as part of the U. S. military defense force in Japan. Before the Korean war the division was on occupation duty in southern Japan.

The "Victory" division rushed into action within a few days after the outbreak of the Korean war. Advance elements were airlifted across the Sea of Japan and on July 5, 1950, made their first contact with the advancing North Korean Reds.

For the rest of July the outnumbered 24th fought a bitter delaying action to the south along the Seoul-Taegu road. The two outstanding fights of this action were the Kum river defense and the battle of Taejon.

It was in Taejon that the 24th's commanding general, Maj. Gen. William Dean, was cut off from his men and later captured.

Probe Group Charges U. S. Movie Industry

Washington, Feb. 16.—(AP)— The House Un-American Activities Committee accused the Motion Picture industry today of failing to take "positive and determined steps" to weed out Communists.

It said it found during hearings conducted last year that its public inquiry, first started in 1947, "had not lessened the extent of Communist infiltration in Hollywood." It noted that in testimony last year more than 300 film figures were "definitely identified" as Communists or fellow travelers.

And even "if communism in Hollywood is mythical" now, the committee said in a report, "the industry itself certainly did not accomplish this. . . . It is only because this committee conducted

SPAHT CONDUCTS RALLIES IN AREA

Spaht, Passman Speak At Ruston, Oak Grove, Bastrop

Political rallies for the Spaht-McKeithen ticket were held in Lake Providence, Oak Grove, Bastrop, Farmerville, Ruston, Rayville and Winnsboro yesterday by Judge Spaht, John McKeithen and Congressman Otto E. Passman.

Congressman Passman in discussing the fracas which occurred between himself and Lt. Governor Bill Dodd Friday stated that "Judge Kennon was permitting goons to go over the state in an attempt to keep him from actively campaigning for Spaht." He further asserted that he would still be battling for Judge Spaht when the sun went down January 19.

Judge Spaht discussed his platform with assembled groups at Lake Providence, Oak Grove, Bastrop, and Farmerville. Spaht left by plane at Ruston for New Orleans to attend the state wide rally in New Orleans last night.

The fifth congressional congressman asserted that a man's future can only be judged by his past record. He stated that Kennon's past was open to the public, showing that "he was not recommended for promotion during his entire army career because his commanding officer did not think him worthy and that he avoided all controversial cases."

In referring to an ad appearing in the New Orleans Times Picayune on December 2, 1951 Passman stated that Freddy Rickerfor, who he named as a gambler, had stated that "Kennon was for more liberal government than some people thought." Passman further quoted Rickerfor as saying in the

Jes' Ramblin'

Seems that the simmering political pot has boiled over here in Monroe when supporters of two rival candidates for next governor exchanged fisticuffs in Hotel Virginia Friday afternoon. The principals, Rep. Otto Passman and Lt. Gov. Bill Dodd are carrying slight scars on face and hand as a result of the encounter. It seems quite fortunate for everybody that the election is now only a few hours distant or there might be some "busted" heads and other physical damage resultant.

In the encounter Friday it appears that neither man won and a draw was all that the outcome could be classed.

City of Monroe bus drivers have been often complimented for the courtesies that they extend toward the patrons of the various lines. They help, if needed, persons who are sick or crippled; many a mother has been given timely aid when getting her young offspring on or off a bus. All the men in this group are ready to assist whenever they can.

Saturday passengers on a College avenue bus had an example similar to that of the Boy Scout who does a good deed every day of his life. The driver of this bus was an "extra", C. C. Moore, Jr., who when his bus reached DeSiard and fourteenth, saw a small moun-

652 Registered At Northeastern

Enrollment for the spring term at Northeast State reached the 652 mark, announced B. S. Hamner, registrar.

This figure shows a break in the history of the college, which has consistently recorded lower enrollments for second semesters than first semesters.

The number of students attending Northeast State during the current term exceeds by 56 the registration for the first fall session in which the college operated as a state institution of senior status. At that time the enrollment reached 596.

Spring registration of the present school year represents an increase of 120 over the number enrolled at the college during the spring term of last year. It also shows an enlargement of over 100 per cent in registration over that of the last spring session when the institution was on the junior college level.

Airborne Division To Motor Through Monroe

A 1,100 motor convoy of the 82nd Airborne Division will roll through Monroe Tuesday and Wednesday on its way to participate in training maneuvers at Fort Hood, Tex. City and state police will join the military police at the city limits on Highway 80 at approximately 11:15 a.m. to escort them through town.

The convoy, which is divided into equal groups — 550 trucks arriving Tuesday and 550 arriving Wednesday — will flow steadily through the city for about two and one half hours. The route chosen is Highway 80 — DeSiard road and Louisville avenue, and Highway 165 — Walnut and South Grand streets.

The troop will camp the previous night in Raymond, Miss. There the convoy will separate, half crossing the Vicksburg bridge and the other half moving across the Natchez bridge, therefore avoiding traffic congestion.

After the division leaves Monroe, it will journey on to Camp Livingston where it will camp for the night and proceed on to Camp Hood, Tex.

This mass movement, involving hundreds of vehicles and thousands of men will be the longest journey by a unit of divisional size, using its own transportation, since World War II.

The 82nd Airborne Division is traveling to Fort Hood to participate in 'Exercise Longhorn," a joint army-air force training maneuver to be held during March and April. The division will act as the enemy against defending U. S. forces. "Longhorn" will be the

Federal Agents Crack Down On Terrorism In Carolinas; 10 Former Klansmen Are Charged

By Noel Yancey

Fayetteville, N. C., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The FBI today smashed into night-riding terrorism in the Carolinas by arresting 10 former Ku Klux Klansmen on charges of kidnaping and flogging a white man and woman.

Federal agents said the night-riders took the victims across the Carolinas border, making themselves liable to the death penalty under the Lindbergh law if convicted of kidnaping.

The 10, including a deputy sheriff and a constable, were rounded up shortly after dawn in southeastern North Carolina's Columbus county. FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, who made the first announcement in Washington, said they were members of the Fair Bluff Klavern in Columbus county, which was disabled three weeks ago. They were arraigned in Fayetteville and ordered held in $5,000 bond each for a hearing before a U. S. commissioner here Feb. 26 and 27. They are charged specifically with violating federal kidnaping and civil rights laws.

The FBI said the victims, Miss Dorothy Martin, 27, and Ben Grainger, 40, both of Fair Bluff, were taken into Horry county, S. C., last Oct. 6 and beaten by hooded, robed and armed men.

Columbus county adjoins Horry county, another klan hotbed.

At least half a dozen other floggings, of whites and Negroes, have been reported from Columbus county in the last four months. Authorities have indicated that only fear has prevented other victims from coming forward.

The arrests were the first in the Columbus county terrorism, which has caused many residents to bolt their doors at night. One of the victims, Clayton Sellers, 28, a white farmer, said "I'd ruther been dead than beat like that."

An off - duty white policeman wearing a klan robe was shot to death in Horry county two years ago. The gunfire resulted from a klan sally on a Negro night club at Myrtle Beach. Since then, there have been several other floggings in swampy Horry county.

In many cases the victims said the nightriders lured them from their beds by pretext of seeking help.

All of them have denied what they said were klan allegations that they drank excessively and mistreated their families.

The violence has been in a Carolina coastal border section rich in truck crops and tobacco.

Among those arrested was Early L. Brooks, 44, a constable described by the FBI a leader in organizing the Fair Bluff Klavern last September.

The FBI chief said "shortly after its founding the klan adopted the name of Southlands Sports Club of Fair Bluff to avoid suspicion, and was disbanded in January, 1952."

W. A. Murphy, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI bureau, said klan regalia and a whip allegedly used in the Martin and Grainger beatings were found at a garage at Brooks' home. He described the strap as a two-foot piece of machine belting nailed to a cut-down pickaxe handle.

The FBI did not give a motive for that klan foray which was the

1ST KEY AWARDS BY LIONS CLUB

Sterlington Group Gives Recognition To Principal O. K. Bailey

At a recent meeting of the Sterlington Lions Club the first key awards to be presented by the club were given by Victor Parish, prominent member of the club, to O. K. Bailey, first president of the Sterlington club, and to Morris A. McCain, immediate past president of the club.

Lion Bailey is principal of the A. L. Smith School and Lion McCain Mart food establishment of Sterlington.

The Sterlington club was sponsored by the Lions Club of West Monroe, and has sponsored many civic improvements in Sterlington. They have made notable improvements to the recreation facilities of the community.

The club continues to thrive under the capable administration of Lion President Eudy the local Missouri Pacific representative.

The club is sponsoring a musical show in the school gymnasium February 22 at 7:30.

We speak of successful men as having the key to success — the happy man is one who has the key to happiness. An important man in any organization is spoken of as a key man. In a Lions Club we honor those Lion members who build and strengthen their club by bringing in new members by officially presenting them with keys, and they are officially designated as key members.

Since the earliest times a key has been regarded as a symbol of power and as an insignia of high office. Keys are mentioned in the Bible many times. In Matthew XVI: 19 Christ said to Peter: "I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven." In Roman times one of the greatest honors you could bestow upon a friend would be to give him the key to your house. Today all cities honor prominent men by presenting them the keys to their city. In Lionism the key is an emblem of distinction and its possessor is recognized as an outstanding Lion, one who rendered unusual service to his club by bringing in new members.

The city of Oslo, Norway, was founded more than 900 years ago.

HONEYMOON CERTIFICATE

Niagara Falls, Ont. —(AP)— Even in winter honeymoon couples are coming every day to Niagara Falls and the official "honeymoon certificate" is credited with boosting the attraction of the historic resort.

The first of these certificates, tinted baby blue, was issued in the summer of 1949. A. W. S. Bennet of the Greater Niagara Chamber of Commerce is alreay preparing for a gala celebration when the 10,000th certificate is issued, some time in the spring.

This winter an average of four or five honeymoon couples daily register for the certificates. In summertime, the daily average is more than 50.

N. LOUISIANA OPS YEAR OLD

Was Established In Shreveport In February 1951; Shows Progress

The price control program in north Louisiana will be one year old on Feb. 19.

The district office of price stabilization in Shreveport came into being one year ago with a director, an information officer, a price analysist, a borrowed office, a borrowed stenographer and two borrowed typewriters.

The office, typewriters and stenographers were borrowed from the veterans administration at Dodd College. About two weeks after the office was created it moved into permanent quarters at 1007 Texas avenue which is still the location of the OPS.

The complex task of explaining ceiling price regulations to literally thousands of north Louisiana businessmen got underway while the OPS was still in the throes of getting organized. Since then, according to O. M. May, district director, OPS men have visited every major town in the 29 north Louisiana parishes dozens of times and have made every crossroad at least once.

As an illustration of what the imposition of price controls means Mr. May pointed out that there are approximately 25,000 business establishments in north Louisiana which sell millions of items covered by price regulations. For instance, there are 1800 filling stations and there are 2,000 persons in the north Louisiana who are listed as "contractors" of one sort or another. A copy of the ceiling price regulation had to be sent to each businessman and in most instances it was necessary to hold special meetings to explain the regulations.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By Oswald Jacoby

Merge Is Allowed In Samba

"We have a question about a Samba situation," writes a Montgomery correspondent.

"We know that melds of the same rank must be merged in Canasta, but that you are allowed to make more than one meld in the same rank in Samba. he other day I had four aces on the table in a game of Samba.

"I picked up the discard pile and carelessly put three aces, which were in that pile, in a separate place on the table, nor remembering that I have already melded four aces.

"When I discovered that I really had another meld of aces on the table, could I merge the two melds? The merger would be compulsory, of course, in the game of Canasta. In Samba, however, is it permissible?"

Yes, the merger is permitted in Samba. You are allowed to meld separately in Samba, but later on you may merge melds of the same rank.

In the case of seven or more cards of the same rank, the merger is permitted provided that the meld does not then contain more than two wild cards, and provided that neither of the melds is a canasta in its own right before being joined to the other meld.

You are also permitted to merge sequences in Samba. In this case, the merged meld must amount to six or seven cards — never more.

I keep getting questions about the legality of having eight or more cards in a canasta. This is perfectly legal. In good games, you often add an eighth or ninth card to a canasta, and so on.

Some people like to follow a local "rule" that forbids the addition of a card to a closed canasta. Some even forbid more than seven cards in a canasta under any circumstances. I think that this is a very foolish rule, but some people like it — and nobody can stop them from using it.

If your circle of friends insists on following this foolish rule, you must be careful to avoid having five cards in a meld. Otherwise you get into some such situation as this: You have, say K-K-K-2-2 on the table, with a pair of kings in your hand.

The pack gets frozen, and a king is discarded to you. Because of that foolish rule, you are not allowed to pick up the pack: it would give you an eight - card canasta. In the official rules, of course, you would be allowed to pick up the pack because an eight - card canasta is quite legal.

Play a better game with Jacoby's new 24 - page Canasta Rules pamphlet. Send 15 cents with your name and address to Oswald Jacoby, Box 438 Times Square Sta., New York 18, N. Y.

Dodd And Passman Fracas

When Lieutenant Governor Bill Dodd took a swing at Congressman Otto Passman at Hotel Virginia Saturday it made a story sensational enough to be nationwide. Congressmen and lieutenant governors don't have fistic skirmishes often but when they do it is news.

The scuffle was followed by quite a number of reactions, depending partly on which side of the fence one might be on and partly on first impressions and later more considered study of the situation.

One of the first impressions, particularly on the part of those opposed to the Long administration and those not particularly devoted to either faction, was one of amusement. If two men, particularly those in high places, suddenly lose their tempers and whack around at each other a little with their fists, people as a rule view it lightly and get some fun out of it. It's better than a wrestling match.

A second reaction and one that was rather generally expressed was that Passman should have been in Washington attending to his business as a congressman and not down here in Louisiana messing around with a race in which the people are the ones to make the choice. Some people said Passman got what he deserved.

Although Passman said he thought he made a pretty good showing against his attacker, considering the fact that Passman is 52 years old, there seemed to be no doubt that the congressman was pushed around and was more on the receiving end than on the giving.

The Dodd camp says the fracas was unexpected and unplanned. The Passman camp says it was a deliberate attack, planned several hours, and probably several days, in advance. Thus the people are left to judge for themselves what the true situation was.

Reaching For God

"If there be no God, then man is of all creatures most miserable."

Among all animals of the earth, birds of the air, fish of the sea and crawling, creeping things, man is the only being on this sphere whose mind can scan his span of life and know that in the end he must die. Animals live almost completely in the present and their minds travel only short distances, if at all, into the past and future.

Thus equipped with a mind that can sweep over large areas of the universe and time, man, from the beginning, has given consideration to the hereafter. Among savages and all known peoples of the earth from earliest recorded history to the present there has been some form of worship of a deity.

It can not be certainly known that there was ever a man born who did not reach out for God.

Ministers and their flocks are among the leaders in searching for God and if they do not make a contact that is direct, personal and certain, they may find solace in brotherhood, kindness to their fellow men and in their faith.

All human beings know they have an allotted time and they can calculate within a few years of the time they will die if they live a normal span. Knowing this, they try to look into the hereafter to see if it offers them hope of a new life or a continuation of this life. To those who thus search, a Supreme Being offers the greatest hope.

A man who professed to have no faith whatever in the hereafter personally said to this writer:

"I wish I could believe in God. Those who can believe, have peace. Without that belief, there is no hope."

The Fewer The Better

Those who believe that price and the related controls can solve practically every economic problem follow a simple formula. Step one is to apply controls. Then, if that doesn't produce the desired result, step two is taken, which is to make the controls still stiffer. So it goes, ad infinitum.

This may be all well in theory, but it breaks down like an overwound spring in fact, For, as controls become stiffer and more numerous, the inevitable result is either a scarcity of goods or a deterioration in the quality of goods. The price is fixed, all right—but that is hardly of advantage to consumers who aren't able to find what they want on the shelves.

The weird changes that have taken place in the beef situation are in point. Some time ago the legitimate packers reported that the amount of beef they were able to purchase was way below normal. More and more beef obviously was being diverted into gray markets and black markets. To make a bad matter worse, OPS was known to be considering placing ceiling prices on meat at the live cattle level. As a consequence, farmers and ranchers largely stopped buying lean cattle to fatten for market—a practice which is responsible for a substantial part of the nation's meat supply.

Then certain changes were made in control regulations. On top of that, congress, in renewing the defense production act, denied OPS authority to impose live cattle prices. In other words, a supply-and-demand economy in meat was to some extent restored. And, of late, marketings of meat through the legitimate channels of trade has been running at near-record levels. The shortage is over.

The moral is plain. The fewer controls we have, the better the public is served. And it is served best when there are no arbitrary, artificial controls at all.

Free Choice Or Compulsion

The head of one of our heavily-taxed, publicly-regulated electric power companies recently offered an interesting and novel comment on what he termed the "glib phrase of public ownership," in an address before the Missouri Press Association.

He asked, "What other kind of ownership can there be in this country except public ownership?" and pointed out that every individual is free to go into the open market and obtain a partnership in industry. Then he said, "It is a matter of free choice available to all. The individuals who make up the American public own everything in the country, including the government. There is no issue of 'public ownership.'

"The real meaning of this glib phrase is 'compulsory ownership.' When the government acquires a business, every person who is or may become a taxpayer becomes an owner and must remain an owner whether he wishes to do so or not.

"It is as simple as the world issue: Under our system there is a free choice, under socialization that choice is gone."

This is an accurate description of the so-called "public ownership" controversy. The utility industry is owned by hundreds of thousands of Americans, representing all walks of life, who put part of their savings into it voluntarily, as increased power production is necessary. Their number is steadily growing, and anyone who wants to join them is free to do so. Socialism, on the other hand, is a system of forcing a political monopoly of industry down the sore public throat, to be paid for and continuously subsibized by every taxpaper. We can have free choice or we can have compulsion. We can't long have both.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

THE SHORTAGE OF TEACHERS

The reason that I write so often about schools and teachers and pupils is that nothing that happens in the United States is quite as important as what happens to our children. Generations go and a new body of citizens takes over, and while there are some who say that times change, it is really people that change because they have been differently trained.

When I went to public school, the Bible was read every morning; we sang a hymn and we saluted the flag. No one thought that it was the wrong thing to do because parents assumed that God and patriotism were all right for children. Yet today Bible-reading is an issue on which sincere persons differ. Although the pledge of allegiance continues, there are teachers who regard it as an invasion of their rights to question their loyalty and they refuse to answer on the grounds that it would incriminate them.

It is not surprising that parents wonder what kind of a teacher guides their children when the teacher has to talk about self-incrimination in relation to loyalty. Yet, it must be said that the Fifth Amendment does protect a person against self-incrimination — as a human right.

Teaching, on the other hand, has become a very unattractive profession because as the cost of living has gone up, the salaries paid to teachers are not good enough. With the Federal government taking so large a share of the earnings of our citizens by income taxes and withholding taxes, cities, counties and other tax-collecting agencies find it difficult to discover new means of raising revenue. There simply is not enough money to pay for everything and it is beginning to look as though we have money for everything but our children.

In addition to all the other troubles that face school authorities, it is clear that they are running short of teachers—even poor teachers. It has been estimated that in a 10-year period, if nothing is done about it, there may be a shortage of about 700,000 teachers for the children who will need schooling.

When there is a shortage of this dimension, quality of teaching must degenerate. Actually, a girl can earn more as a stenographer, with better prospects, than as a teacher. The attraction of short hours is no longer present with the 40-hour week usual in industry. The long summer vacation is only available for the lazy and ambitionless; good teachers will attend summer sessions at college to improve their status an dtheir knowledge. And that costs money, as well as time.

Dr. Earl J. McGrath, United States Commissioner of Education, is quoted as saying:

"The thinner you stretch your available teaching staff to cover the unprecedented and inexorably increasing enrollments in our public schools, the less chance there is for a teacher to do a competent job of teaching. It is the child who inevitably suffers. And when the child suffers, the nation suffers."

The problem is really serious and parents give it too little attention. They accept the conditions as they find them and they assume that because their children are at school, they are being taught. The fact is that a teacher can only do so much with a class and when it gets too large, the teacher is helpless. She grows nervous and irritable. Children are passed to higher grades who should be held back; the smart children are irked by "class average" teaching which is inadequate for them. In time, some of them become so moody in class that they seek adventure outside of it —often dangerous adventure.

J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI constantly call attention to the increase of juvenile crime, which parents ignore until it hits their own homes and then they wonder how it could happen to them. Someone once said: "There are no bad children; there are only bad parents." It is something to think about these days when citizens do not guard their schools and wonder at the improprieties of their children.

The schools should come first in our interest. They are more important than many functions that the Federal government has piled up in the enthusiasm of political empire-building.

Marines May Retain Rank If Reenlisting

Marines who have been discharged less than a year may now re-enlist at the same rank they held upon discharge, T-Sgt. C. H. Standard, NCO in charge of the marine recruiting office in Monroe said today.

Previously a marine had to re-enlist within 24 hours of his discharge to retain the same rank he declared.

Also, men who have been released from the marine reserve to an inactive status within the last year are eligible to re-enlist with their old rank under this new regulation, T-Sgt. Standard said.

A department of defense announcement recently from Washington said the marine corps plans to obtain 1000 officers from its enlisted rank. The larger number of these to be promoted, the release states are senior non - commissioned officers who have approximately 10 years service and are veterans of World War II.

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

Editorial opinion appears to be about equally divided as to whether Canada really would proceed now, as official Canadian statements indicate, to construct the St. Lawrence Seaway without full United States participation, and as stration really would cooperate to whether the Truman administration really would cooperate with Canada to that end.—Editors, in a large plurality, favor American participation in the seaway now. A considerable minority would postpone the matter, at least until our rearmament spending declines. While a very large minority of editors opposes American contribution toward the project — now and for the foreseeable future.

Providence (R. I.) Journal (Ind.): "Mr. Truman's special message to congress on the St. Lawrence seaway may be the last presidential prod of this character. Unless favorable action is taken this session on his request, the seaway presumably will become wholly a Canadian project. For the president has told congress that, unless it authorizes American participation, his administration will co-operate with the Canadian government in obtaining the necessary approval of the international joint commission to permit independent action by Canada."

New Bedford (Mass.) Standard-Times (Ind.): "Canada's decision to go it alone if necessary has been viewed with some skepticism. In the light of the president's message stressing that decision, it has seemed to observers a maneuver to force congress to approve a scheme it has hitherto opposed. The president appears to be lending a hand in a squeeze play . . . The president did not discuss in his message the grounds on which this project has been opposed. He rested his case on Canada's readiness to build the seaway alone. More than that is needed . . ."

St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch (Ind.): "The intention of the Canadian government is perfectly clear . . . Here is some offical evidence . . . from the statement of the minister of transport, Lionel Chevrier, in the Canadian house of commons on last December 4: 'We would prefer to have full United States participation in the project . . . We are now recommending to parliament that, failing such approval, the all-Canadian seaway be undertaken on the most suitable basis that can be established.' . . . The New York Herald Tribune calls this 'almost pure poppycock.' The Canadian government evidently thinks otherwise."

New York Herald Tribune (Ind.-Rep.): "There cannot be a seaway without a dam to raise channel levels; Canada cannot build the dam alone, since the site is in the international section . . . What Canada really proposes is that if congress once more rejects the plan, and if the power project and dam can then be worked out between Ontario and 'an Amereican agency' (presumably the state of New York), Canada will sustain the cost of the locks and channels. Their plan depends upon the president yielding in his obstinate objection to a power development by New York and Ontario, which he is scarcely likely to do in an election year."

Nashville (Tenn.) Tennessean (Dem.): "Although reasoned opinion favors American participation in the seaway, there has been persistent opposition over a period of 30 years, and much of it is sectional. This attitude is best demonstrated by Senator Connally of Texas, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, who insists that 'this is no time to spend a billion dollars on something that will be frozen over five months of the year' . . . Yet the Texan is not on record as opposing the servicing of Great Lakes channels which are usually frozen from the end of November until late March or early April."

Christian Science Monitor (Ind.): "Faith in the expansion of the North American economy argues for going ahead. A hard-headed look at the problems of the moment argues for postponement at least until the drive toward sufficient rearmament is well 'over the hump.' The case rests largely upon the need of iron ore for national defense. The high-grade deposits of Minnesota's Mesabi Range are nearing exhaustion. But the range's vast reserves of low-grade taconite can be processed about as cheaply as ore brought from Labrador. The huge deposits recently found in Ontario are accessible directly from the Great Lakes."

Boston (Mass.) Herald (Ind.): "Canada's interest is considerably more urgent than this country's. The growth of Canada makes the seaway essential for the development of the great frontiers of the west, 1000 miles or more from the Great Lakes. Transportation for bulky raw material resources is vital . . . It is true that Canada's prosperity will contribute to U. S. prosperity. But we ought to ask ourselves if we are wise to contribute a large amount of money for a project which would contribute so much more to Canada's prosperity than to ours."

THE MISFIT

There are dark hours in every life and there is none of us but has to live through them as best he can, knowing that nothing ever happens to him that has not happened, is not happening, to other people who manage to survive.

"It seems as though everything happens to me. It must be my child who gets the poor marks and Mrs. Gooby's who gets all the praise."

That simply is not true. Mrs. Gooby has her own troubles and if she hides them and puts a brave, bright face to the world, more power to her.

There is no family, however seemingly congenial and happy, but has some member who is a thorn in the flesh to the others. Maybe a half - grown child who by his attitudes casts a shadow over the rest of the household. Maybe a resident relative who makes life exciting for the family. Maybe it's the father or the mother. Some one of them is sure to be a misfit. That is the way people are.

You can't discharge a member of the family. Nothing you can do will eliminate the feeling of his belonging. Not distance, not divorce, not boycott. While he lives, he is with us. What we can do is, like the oyster and the grain of sand, build a shield between him and us.

That is easier said than done. It takes a lot of doing and a greater lot of understanding. Begin by determining to like this annoying person. Insist upon discovering something good about him and making mention of it. Keep that fact before your mind and it will help to overcome some of the irritation. Remember something he has done for you. That helps.

And ignore his faults as far as you humanly can do. When a sulky child says something crude, behaves rudely, meet him with silence. Make that silence eloquent by ignoring his wants, wishes and Scientific analysis of "gossip" was aired by Dr. Robert Knight, psychologist. As a dealer (or monger) in that commodity, I was interested. My office is perhaps the busiest laboratory in that field.

On Isabel Leighton's "How Did They Get That Way?" program Miss Dorothy Kilgallen served as interlocutor. Dorothy is also in the columning trade. Her questions were sharp. She touched the program off by asking, in effect, whether the topic could be divided between "harmful, scandalous gossip and gossip which is merely diverting — the passing on of innocent information."

To which the doctor replied:

"I think we could divide off a group. . .that we could call normal gossip, which is the kind of interest that everybody has in other people. . .especially in important people. . .In the old days there were myths about the gods and goddesses. . .(which) developed for the purpose of showing that gods and goddesses were human, too.

"And common people like to feel that important people also have private lives with difficulties, and foibles, and so forth. This, I think is 'normal' gossip. . .out of curiosity about other people."

The good doctor is so right!

We had with us last week Clark Gable. He is one of our modern gods. He is "copy" for the non-divinities. As far as I know, he exhibited no foibles or difficulties while in our city, which is not by nature especially gossipy, because it is not by nature neighborly. Yet it is the world capital of gossip, because important persons live or visit here.

Gable showed himself in cafes, went to theatres, visited his estranged wife in a hospital, flew home to Hollywood.

By true count (and my secretaries record all calls) exactly 101 people telephoned to report that they had seen or heard "from eyewitnesses" what the great man was doing.

The moment he showed his famous face, someone leaped to a phone. They were unknowns who did not want (or did not hope) for any publicity. But they were all emotional with a vicarious kick—they had seen him and they would inject their inconsequential beings into his deified one, second - hand, by being the instruments of spreading to millions of other anonymous ones some information about what Clark Gable had done —anything he had done.

I did not answer any of the calls. I rarely do. But my intermediaries did. Some of the communicators ure so excited, they could not speak coherently, I was told. One had a relative in a room on the floor in Doctors Hospital where Lady Sylvia was recuperating. Because of the solemn surroundings she had not asked him for his autograph. But she had seen him! Yes, with her own eyes. She was that close to him!

Dr. Knight made a point that women are not alone in the field. And again he was correct. Of these 101 calls, 74 were from men. Rumor is one parent of gossip, and above that he cited a testcase. Slightly condensed for space, this is it:

"At Princeton . . . Dr. Hadley Cantrol, psychologist there, did a study in rumor and how it developed. He told six students in absolute confidence of an untrue thing — to see how it worked—that the Duke and Duchess of Windsor would be at the next Princeton dance. Then, in one week, he tested . . . and 2,000 people had heard about it, including town authorities and newspapers . . . These were all men."

Of course, malicious gossip or self-interested (including an egotistical passion for publicity and cold attempts to capitalize on it) are not subject to psychological study. They are two well understood to require analysis. But the human propensity for spreading tales in frivolous enjoyment, based on no hatred or desire for gain, I think, is something else again.

My experience — and it has been long and vast and intimate in a wholesale market place—has indicated that suppressed, unsure persons do it avidly to demonstrate that they know things which not everyone knows or could know.

To this impulse newspapers everywhere are beholden. It contributes to our free press. By no means all such "tips" are picayune. Some of the biggest exposures on important matters have originated this way. And I regret to say that they were more often inspired by an urge to tell than by a true patriotic prompting pro bono publico. Even those who pass along such formation anonymously get their thrill in self-satisfaction, the warm feeling of having told a big daily something that it, with all its facilities — and sources, did not know.

That, too, though sent to an editor and not to a columnist, is a manifestation of the yen to disseminate "gossip" for the fact that it is true does not alter its coloration.

We who handle the stuff hot learn, almost instinctively, to recognize the possibly factual from the malicious, synthetic or recklessly false. Everything must be checked. But the tone will often eliminate the specious. That is the human factor in the teller, more than in the tale.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, February 16 — I knew, of course, that "Stromboli," the picture which touched off the Bergman-Rossellini romance, was a box - office lemon, but, I had no idea how complete the financial disaster had been until I saw authentic figures the other day. I found them interesting, in view of the argument, constantly advanced by one Hollywood producer or another, that a new picture starring Miss Bergman would be a sure-fire money-maker because of her "curiosity value."

"Stromboli" was made and released during the peak of the big scandal. Ingrid's admission of love for her Italian director, her announcement that she would divorce Dr. Lindstrom, and the revelation of her prospective motherhood—a rapid-fire succession of gargantuan headlines, carried by papers throughout the entire western world — unquestionably made "Stromboli" one of the most thoroughly publicized pictures in movie history. Certainly public curiosity, under the impact of those headlines, must have been keener then than it is now. And still "Stromboli" flopped, dismally and completely.

By what process of reasoning, I wonder, do producers conclude that the situation has changed? How can Miss Bergman be a better box-office property in 1951 than she was in 1949? The people whom her actions offended then are still offended, and the people who then wanted to see her because of their morbid curiosity about her affairs have long since turned their curiosity elsewhere.

Having often voiced my personal yen for pictures setting forth the facts of American history, I'm delighted by the intelligent treatment MGM has decided upon for "The Plymouth Adventure," its story about the settlement of New England. The script rides roughshod over certain widely accepted myths and legends. For instance, it very courageously explodes the story, immortalized by Longfellow, about the Capt. Miles Standish-Priscilla Mullen-John Alden "triangle." I've always felt that Captain Standish received rather unfair treatment at the hands of the poet, since, factually, he was not smitten by the charms of Miss Mullen (a girl young enough to be his daughter,) and was happily married to Rose Staudish.

On the sidelines of the MGM set where "One Piece Bathing Suit" is being filmed is a big "easy chair"—one of those soft-cushioned, perfectly - contoured creations into which most weary mortals love to sink and find complete relaxation. And on the set, suffering from the strange physical fatigue induced by movie work, are a host of Hollywood's prettiest extra girls. But in this case need and opportunity don't add up quite right. After one experience, the ladies on the set avoid that chair as they would poison.

Why? Well, there's a chuckle in the answer to that one. That big easy chair happens to be hooked up to a weight-measuring device. She who parks in it has her true averdupois proclaimed, for all the world to see, on a big dial suspended just above the chair.

Idol Chatter: What a shame that Gail Russell, who has everything else needed for stardom, doesn't have the emotional stability to hold it . . . Nominated for top-flight stardom in 1952: Betsy (Mrs. Cary Grant) Drake . . . What price great acting ability, when the winner of Photoplay's poll to determine the best actor of 1951 turns out to be Mario Lanza? . . . Add exceptions to the rule: Irene Dunne, who actually looks charming in her poodle - cut hair-do. . . Do you suppose the producer of "Bell, Book and Candle," currently wooing Joan Bennett for the starring role, wants her because he thinks she'd go over with a bang? . . . Peas in a pod: Jeffrey Hunter, today, and Henry Fonda, a dozen years ago.

Louisiana---Its Community Life

By Ethel McIntyre

Before the Civil War Rayville was known as the Little Creek Station. It was situated on the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Texas Railroad, one of the oldest railroads in the south. Before the first rail was laid, and the Little Creek station established, early pioneers and settlers, of the then wild northern Louisiana country, gathered at a salt lick near Beouf River to lay in wait for unsuspecting deer. Today the deer of that time would be at least a bit confused in trying to locate their salt lick, for that point is now the main intersection of Rayville.

In planning the town site a controversy arose as to where the location should be. A Mr. Jordon wanted it on the west side of the river, while a Mr. Ray contended for the east side. The issue was settled by a vote and Mr. Ray won. He then donated the site and the town was named for him.

Rayville is the parish seat of Richland parish, located in a rich farming section. It has become the center of rich oil discoveries in recent years.

With cotton the major crop in this area, Rayville is the home of one of the South's largest inland cotton storage and compress plants.

Nature certainly smiled on this district of northeast Louisiana, and the progressive town of Rayville keeps step in the march of progress in Dixieland. Not many years pass without some improvement for the betterment of the community. Today two beautiful new churches, one the Methodist, the other Baptist, near completion, while a new courthouse, built on the spot where the first courthouse, a frame building, once stood, will soon be finished, and is pointed to with pride by every citizen of the parish.

Movie fans in the town and surrounding community have the privilege of seeing their favorite picture, on the screen, in one of the most modern theaters in the south.

The well - run city government maintains paved streets and municipally owned water and light plants, while the excellent school system furnishes modern education facilities to more than 1500 students.

Rayville has contributed its share towards making the south "A Land Of Beauty." Giant oak trees, with their wide spreading branches, envelope the streets in cooling shade, and on the hottest of summer days is a standing invitation to inhabitants and travelers to stop, rest and dream. Beautiful homes, enclosed in lovely landscaped lawns, which burst into brilliant color in the early spring, with their exotic hued beds of pansies, the many colored iris, like rare orchids, greeting the passerby, the golden jonquils, adding a ray of sunshine, while the red bud trees radiate a beauty all their own, along the sidewalks, are well worth the sight - seers time spent in this town. During the winter months the many evergreens, intermingled with berry - bearing shrubs, furnish color, life and brilliance to the homes. Rayville was especially decorated for the Chrsitmas celebration, and visitors and travelers each complimented the town on the artistically arranged lights, adding brightness and cheer to the holiday season.

Controversies still arise in the town and like that first issue are settled by vote. Many heated arguments as to who will make the best sheriff, who should be mayor, or whether or not to have parking meters, might seem to a stranger at times to have the citizenry, neighbor against neighbor brother against brother, but when an election is past and the returns counted each citizen abides by the result, friends are still friends, while brothers laugh as to who won or lost his vote, and the forward march of progress continues, with all persons contributing his all towards a better, more prosperous community.

BIBLE THOUGHTS:

Then she came and told the man of God. And he said, Go, sell the oil, and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy children of the rest. —II Kings 4:7.

Remember that God will not be mocked; that it is the heart of the worshipper which He regards. We are never safe till we love Him with our whole heart whom we pretend to worship.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood — NEA — Exclusively Yours: Lana Turner is flashing the green light that will make her the ex-Mrs. Bob Topping. The divorce action will be filed in January before she leaves for a vacation in Europe.

Another sequel to "Father of the Bride" is in the works at MGM, with rumors that Joan Bennett's role will be eliminated from the script. A line of dialog will explain that she's on "vacation."

It will still be titled, "The Jazz Singer," but Danny Thomas, in the Al Jolson role for the Warners' re - make, will play an entertainer more like himself than a jazz singer. The original plot was about a father wanting his son to follow in his footsteps as a great singer, but Danny told me:

"We don't want to expose the public to my uncultured voice so I'll just be an entertainer."

Dorothy Lamour, the Iron Jaw girl of the circus in "The Greatest Show on Earth," is blushing. Her highly publicized scenes dangling by her teeth from the end of a rope were left on the cutting-room floor.

Academy Awards brass hats reconsidered their original nixing of televising the Oscar festivities in March but again came up with an "Inadvisable" reason for the video blackout. Several big industry leaders are howling mad about the whole thing.

Hollywood Bound

The Broadway hit, "Paint Your Wagon," by Alan Lerner and Frederick Lowe, is headed for MGM with a $200,000 price tag. Penciled in for the leads are Spencer Tracy, Kathryn Grayson and Fernando Lamas.

Variety reports from Cincinnati that if and when Sen. Robert Taft moves into the White House, Louis B. Mayer will move into the cabinet job of secretary of commerce.

Kirk Douglas stepped off a plane in New York into the arms of Betty Threatt, who worked with him in "The Big Sky." At 7 a.m. yet.

Pat O'Brien's off on another supper club tour. Pat's telling about his 17 - year - old Mavourneen getting ready for a blind date. "I'd like to get a look at this guy," said Pat.

Replied Mavourneen: "Daddy, maybe he'd like to take a good look at You."

Bob Preston, mixing New York TV work with movies, is in town for "The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky." About his rumored shaky marriage, he said:

"We've been separated only by 3000 miles while I was in New York."

Bob says that N. Y. television executives are convinced now that TV is moving west to Hollywood and on film.

"Live shows," he told me, "are just too limited and the boys know it. They all asked me to mention their names in Hollywood."

Your National Guard

The Monroe units of the 3rd Battalion of the 199th infantry and Company M at Ruston of the Louisiana National Guard passed the annual amory inspection last week with flying colors. The men were inspected in ranks, questioned about training their unit, what their job and position would be in the event of a local or national emergency, and the individual training was inspected during the second hour of training. The administration and supply inspection took the majority of the afternoon phase of the inspection. The units were found to be in excellent shape.

Staff officers and company commanders of the 3rd battalion assembled last week end to participate in a map exercise, this was in conjunction with their regularly scheduled staff training. These conferences are for the purpose of keeping constantly abreast of changing conditions in tactics in the field of warfare. Officers attending this conference were Lt. Col. Walter H. Johnson, commanding officer of the 3rd battalion, Maj. Renau G. Breard, operations and training officer of the 3rd battalion, Maj. Earl C. Mallory, executive officer, 3rd bn., Capt. Frank V. Anazlone, Jr., Supply officer, 3rd bn., Maj. Thomas D. Randolph, army instructor, 3rd Bn., Capt. Albert L. Stewart, CO of Hq. Co., Lt. James L. Roberts, CO of Co. I, and Capt. Alfred L. Causey, CO of Co. K, 199th infantry. These campanies urge any young man who is between 17-18½ years of age and who thinks he is qualified to serve in the Louisiana National Guard to contact them or their representative at the National Guard Armory at 218 S. PUBLIC FORUM

Alas and Alack. "Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown." Sometimes to win is to lose. E. V. Beard won in ward 8 as justice of the peace after making some wild pre-election promises which comprised a mess of greens, plus a wheel barrow ride to his supporters.

But the weather man had the last word. The winter turnip crop failed and the justice admits that the state has confiscated his famous wheelbarrow on a charge of operating without a license.

He asserts that if he is so fortunate as to live through attacks through failure to keep promises that he will never again be so rash as to give similar assurance in the event he is elected.

STRANGE CREATURES

Monroe, La.
Feb. 16, 1952.

To the Editor:

"Politics makes strange bedfellows" is a statement which is familiar to nearly every voter. The statement might also be made that politics transforms people, who are candidates for office, into strange creatures. If each candidate could impartially view himself as others see him, he would not recognize himself at all.

Let us take two candidates for the governorship of a state for example. First, what sort of men are they? Each one is a good church member. Each one could be presumably an elder of his church. Each could be a respected citizen in his community. If both lived in the same neighborhood it is quite possible that these two men might be good friends. If neither had entered politics, and someone had made slanderous remarks about one of the two men, it is reasonably probable that the other would come to the defense of the first. But — both decide to become candidates for the same office. Both immediately look upon each other as some sleazy, repugnant creature who would be better deported to some foreign clime. Foul mouthings are shouted from one to the other. Attempts are made to caricature the opponent as some fearful person who would, if elected, plunge his fair state into the depths of something or other. Epithetical expressions are hurled back and forth until long after election the public citizenry look with apprehension toward both creatures as something to avoid.

This situation is quite common all over the country. One finds cause to wonder why it is necessary for political campaigns to be conducted thusly. One also finds it compulsory to take stock of the situation which, everyone must agree, has become so deplorable. Could not a better way be found to elect our public officials? Could not animosity and viciousness and muck be abolished from political world? Then the time may come to pass when the holding of public office will become more and more attractive to our better citizens. What a wonderful experiment would be this endeavor!

Yours very truly,
Paul A. Voney.

When I opened the Monroe Morning World this morning and realized how much space you had given to the work of your home demonstration agents of Ouachita parish and the Twin Cities, I felt constrained to write you a letter of appreciation. For many years your two papers haev helped us spread influence of better homemaking in this area. Thank you very much.

The articles to which I refer in today's paper are:

Dear Sir:

After last night's episode between two of our leaders, I am sure that the people of our local community and state will take stock of the political situation.

It is not proper for a congressman to absent himself from his duties and then take part in a race that is his concern only as a voter. The lieutenant - governor has the duties of his office to account for. The altercation is proof that neither of them have the proper maintenance of manner required to represent any people in any office.

I have been taught that to become a leader a man must first master himself. He who masters himself is master of all things. Just imagine what kind of a decision a congressman could make in Washington if he has to get into fights with men to prove his point.

Young men are dying daily because such men have made the decisions affecting our nation. I am sure that if some of the fatally wounded kids of the Korean action could have witnessed the small boy fight put on by our two leaders that such action would have repudiated the beliefs these young men died fighting for.

The congress does not have to worry about drafting eighteen year old boys to do our fighting. We can just get our letter-writing president the fighting lieutenant-governor and his over - matched congressman opponent and the rest of the elected Democrats who have made a jackass out of our beloved party, and put them in Korea and let them do the scrapping. On second thought, maybe we would have no Korea if they were not in office. The war probably started over there when our president (on one of his tours) saw a Korean kick a jackass. This inspired the loyalty that sent our troops to the rescue.

It is possible for congressmen and their appointed stooges to keep qualified disabled veterans out of public service even though they meet all the requirements except the physical. Yet, these hot tempered veteran congressmen, presidents, and lieutenant governors have full swing of decisions that affect our entire nation and its people.

We can return these men to their little boy activities at the polls in the coming elections. As one citizen put it this morning. They are moronic or otherwise when they call each other silly and so on. Let us get busy and put some real men in office and relieve these sick men who have resorted to tactics of childhood to solve problems that would stump the most adult among us. We have to do this if we are to stop the dissolution of the greatest country and people on earth. Our own United States. Please print in the forum. The congressman and the lieutenant - governor can apologize and make amends by retiring from offices that are beyond their abilities.

Sincerely,
Arthur M. LeBlanc, Jr.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

The furniture for the set of "The Play's The Thing" went out to playhouse on Friday afternoon with the help of Elliott Howe, his station wagon and chauffeur. Elliott Howe, talented decorator from the Shreveport studios of Hemmenway Deocrating Co. has not only come forward with the loan of some of their fine furniture but also acted as decorator - advisor. I understand that the set looks so good, we're really in for a pleasant treat next week, being transported to a castle on the Italian Riviera.

All of the details of production were well in hand by this week end, as the cast went into a huddle for those last three intensive rehearsals before opening night on Wednesday evening February 20. The play will run through Wednesday February 27. Because of the limited seating problem, don't forget to call as early as possible, telephone 3-4263, for your reservations.

Les Marquises, honorary campus organization at Northeastern Louisiana State College, will usher for the eight night run of "The Play's The Thing". The backstage crew, who should come in for their share of honors in this play, are Gene Ritter who is again filling nis role of stage manager; Sara Ritter and Mary Kathryn Holcomb, co-chairman of properties, Ellen Brown, wardrobe. And so merrily things roll along to opening curtain next Wednesday evening.

RANDOM NOTES. .Understand the arm that Elliott Howe broke a few weeks in a bad wreck, is feeling better. . .Little Theatre members Mrs. M. R. Troy and Mrs. Harold Brady, co - chairmen of this years residential drive for Red Cross were working overtime this week getting all of their plans in shape. They are hoping that all of you good people will save one teeny-weeny dollar to buy a membership, when their host of workers start knocking on doors. . . Gwyn Blauvelt, Little Theatre reservations secretary, whom we are happy to say is still here and hasn't moved to Shreveport, will handle the Red Cross residential drive at Selman Field. . .The Bill Riley's welcomed a baby boy this week. Proud pappa Bill was a big hit in this seasons opening comedy, "Abie's Irish Rose".

Problem Wife

Irresponsible, Selfish Ways Have Killed Husband's Love

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: Being a man, I have tried to solve my own problem, but it is a bit beyond me. I have struggled with it for ten years, and if some solution isn't found, I will eventually leave my wife.

I was raised in an affectionate, orderly home. I have a quiet temperament, am not much of a talker, but am not moody. I have tried to be a good husband and father; my children love me very much. A few years ago I stopped loving, admiring or respecting my wife. To make up for this I have given her everything that money could buy.

She has two maids, charge accounts in the stores and can come and go as she pleases. From the moment the children—a boy and a girl—came, she has gone into a rage when they crossed her will. She says she hates responsibility. She is always out at parties or engaging in various civic activities; when she gets home she is tired and takes it out on the children. The only people who rate a civil word from her are the two maids and the gardener. She delights in telling off-color stories whenever we have friends in.

I have spoken to the doctor about her and he says she has never had the intelligence to grow up, and is still the smart little girl who wants the center of the floor. She hates my family. I am not in love with any other woman, but sometimes wish I were; it would be a way out. My brother-in-law says my wife was difficult as a child, and has always been an egotist. Her chief topic of conversation is her own likes and dislikes. What can I do, at least until the children grow up? J. R.

ANSWER: I wish I could offer the encouragement that your wife will change and become the kind of helpmate you deserve. Unfortunately, there is little hope of redemption in a woman who has been allowed to go her own uncontrolled, selfish, egotistical way for so long. Her parents should have curbed her long ago; having failed in their job, you should have been more firm with her from the beginning of your marriage.

TWO SOLUTIONS

At the present crisis, I can offer two solutions. A psychiatrist might be helpful if your wife could be induced to see one. If all earthly measures fail, why not try heavenly ones? The power of prayer is unfathomable; use it. Have a talk with your pastor, see if he has any solutions to offer and ask him to join with you in an offering of prayer.

If your wife's attitude is damaging the health—mental or physical—or the moral welfare of your children, don't try to hold the home together too long. I advocate trying to keep a home together under almost any circumstances, but an unrepressed mother can wreak such havoc with her children's characters that it is sometimes better, in these cases, to break up the home rather than continue the danger to the youngsters. However, before taking this drastic action, see your pastor, try to have your wife see a psychiatrist and start praying.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow of 47. I don't care for male friends. Is this unusual for a woman my age? The only pleasures I have are work and church. H. R.

ANSWER: By being satisfied in the state to which God has called you, you are avoiding many of the complications that beset so many women in their 40's. Too often the very things that keep you busy are the things others avoid most sedulously in their scurry for romance. Since the chances of a woman your age remarrying are slim, it's a fine thing to be content with what you have.

DEAR MISS DIX: For the past three years I have been going with a man who is in business with a woman. He has asked me to marry him, but so far he has no divorce. During the winter he goes to Florida and stays at the home of his business partner. I can't make him tell me what he intends to do; he never talks anything over with me and always avoids my questions. Z. Z. Z.

ANSWER: I've often heard of a woman playing second fiddle in a man's affections but when it comes to third fiddle I think you're a little too far back in the orchestra. You're in an absolutely hopeless position and my advice is to get out of it as soon as possible. Your friend doesn't want a divorce—he wants a harem!

LUTHERANS TO JENNINGS MEET

Two Day Sessions To Be Held; Local Pastor Will Attend

The Rev. Harold Reinhardt, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, along with the Lutheran pastors of western Louisiana, will meet in Jennings for the regular semi - annual two-day conference of Circuit 'C' on Monday and Tuesday.

Pastors of Circuit 'C', a subdivision of the southern district of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, will convene Monday at 1 p. m. at Immanuel Lutheran Church of Jennings. The Rev. Ewald Recks will serve as host pastor. He will also officiate at a special Communion service for the pastors on Monday. Sessions will continue through Tuesday noon.

"Who Paid Paul's Salary?" by the Rev. Theo Wegener of Lake Charles is the subject of one of the papers to be presented. Other papers and business will include "Exegesis," or interpretation of I Peter, chapter 1, by Rev. Martin Buerger of Alexandria and a discussion of the "Conquest for Christ" campaign that is now underway in the Lutheran Church to raise 10,000,000 for erection and maintenance of schools for the training of pastors and teachers as well as for missions.

A report on the activities of the Trailer Mission that is operating in southern Louisiana under the direction of Rev. O. D. Meyer also will be given.

An added feature will be a talk given by the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Lang of their work and experiences as missionaries in India. The couple will speak at an open meeting on Monday evening. The missionaries are at present on leave from their post in India and are touring parts of the country, giving others the benefits of their experiences in bringing the Gospel of Jesus Christ to natives heretofore steeped in superstitions.

The Ladies Society of the congregation will entertain the pastors' wives during the conference sessions and provide meals and housing for guests.

In Madrid, shops and business places are closed between 1 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

2,316 Enroll At Southwestern

Dr. Herbert Hamilton, dean of administration at Southwestern Louisiana Institute, announced yesterday that enrollment for the spring semester totals 2,316 students.

In addition, Dean Hamilton said, about 150 students are enrolled in non - college grade classes in banking, radio and clerical subjects, which are not included in the registration figures.

The 1952 spring semester enrollment represents an increase of six per cent over that of the spring semester of 1951, as 128 more pupils have enrolled this year.

The increase is unusual, Dean Hamilton said, as most schools are showing a decrease of approximately five to 11 per cent.

2 Hurt Slightly In Car Accident

Two persons were slightly injured yesterday after two cars crashed head - on on the 1200 block of Trenton street in West Monroe yesterday at about 9:55 a.m.

M. G. Ray, 50, Alexandria, La., and Jack Oglesby, 29, West Monroe, were both treated for superficial cuts and bruises.

West Monroe police, who investigated the accident, said that Ray reported he was traveling north on Trenton street and started to make a left turn, when he saw a car approaching him at what he termed a "dangerous rate of speed."

"I straightened my car back up," Ray said, "and the other driver put on his brakes. The car swerved to the left and hit me head on."

The 1952 Plymouth driven by Oglesby was demolished, said West Monroe officers. Both drivers were charged with reckless driving and subpoenaed to appear in court Monday.

CONTRACTS IN MAIL FOR 16 MONROE SPORTS

CLUB STILL NOT ABLE TO SETTLE ON NEW SKIPPER

Manasseh Expecting No Troubles With Holdouts

Contracts to sixteen candidates for the 1952 edition of the Monroe Sports will be placed in the mail this week. The remaining eight members of the squad are rookies, and already have signed their documents for the coming campaign.

Business Manager Paul Manasseh indicated that he didn't expect any serious gripes when the contracts are received by the performers, most of whom saw action here last year.

He admitted there would probably some kickbacks, but, "Since we won the pennant last year, we've been pretty liberal in spite of the drop in attendance between 1951 and 1950."

National association rules are specific in that contracts must be mailed before March 1 and the local Cotton States League aggregation is beating the deadline by about ten days.

Spring training starts April 1 for the Sports and any players who haven't agreed to terms by that time will be expected to pay their own way if they report.

On another subject, Manasseh announced last night that starting Monday books of 20 general admission tickets will be placed on sale at a pre-season bargain rate. The books will carry a ten per cent reduction if they are purchased before the April 22 kickoff date for the league.

Instead of paying $16.00 for 20 tickets, Manasseh pointed out, they can be bought for $14.40 which is the equivalent of receiving two free tickets. These books will be on sale at ball club office at Legion Meorial Stadium or at Saul Adler Garage, 201 S. Grand St.

There is nothing new on the local managerial poser.

"We weren't aware of Al Mazur's decision not to return to Monroe until last week end," Manasseh said. (Mazur's announced retirement was revealed exclusively in last Sunday's Morning World.) "Thus, we had to wait to see what he would do as the job was his if he wanted it. In the last week we have had several applications for the position, but it will probably be a couple of weeks before a decision is reached."

The most persistent rumor about town among fans is that the new skipper will be either Shortstop Bobby Wilkins or Second Baseman Charley Harrington, both of whom performed for the parent Shreveport team last year.

Manasseh, however, refused to commit himself as to whether either was being considered.

The release last week of Infielder Carl Tucker by the Sports dispelled the report that he would be named as pilot.

Others who have been rumored as in line for the job included former Shreveport first baseman Les Burge, and George Torres who managed Natchez last year to the playoff victory.

The annual baseball school conducted by the Shreveport organization will be held again this year Manasseh said. It will be staged in Shreveport March 6-9 and any youngster who desires a professional contract is urged to attend. There is no tuition or entry fee charged and if a prospect is signed to a contract, he will be reimbursed his expenses incurred in attending the school.

Three members of the this year's Sports' squad were products of the 1951 school. They are Pitchers Craig Whetstone, Jack Fuller and Jimmy Clark. Whetstone was with Shelby of the Western Carolina League; Fuller with Ardmore of the Sooner State League and Clark with Alexandria of the Evangeline League.

Manager Mickey Livingston of Shreveport will be head tutor at the school, assisted by Scout Abe Miller, Manager Tony York of Texarkana, Manager "Buddy" Blair of Alexandria, and the Monroe skipper when he is named.

M'NEESE AGAIN SOCKS REDSKINS

Northeast Drops Early Lead, Loses 65 To 39

Lake Charles, La., Feb. 16. — (Special) — The Indians of Northeast Louisiana State started like they meant business here tonight, grabbing a 10-1 lead over McNeese State in the early stages of their basketball battle. But before the night was over the Tribe had wilted and the Cowboys had won their fourth of the season from the Monroe quintet, 65 to 39.

"Toddy" Moore, who has been a big gun against Northeast, was well guarded tonight, getting only four points, but likewise the Cowpokes kept big Bob Bennett in control to a mere lone foul shot before he fouled out. Miller of McNeese led the scoring with 17 points with Northeast's Mark Boatright right on his heels with 16.

'Big Name' Wrestlers Show Tuesday With Three Newcomers At Kallio's

Rocca, Kwariani In Main Event; Moran For Bashara

Two big name wrestlers head the mat card at Gus Kallio's Arena Tuesday night, meeting in the main event, and a couple of the toughest matmen on this circuit tangle in the semi-final.

The main event will star "Argentina" Antonino Rocca and Kola Kwariani, a gigantic 240- pounder from Russia, both big name mat stars and tops in the ring, for a 90-minute time limit scrape.

The semi-final event will match round Ellis Bashara and Sailor Moran, a newcomer here but well known on this circuit, in an hour time limit battle.

Three of the wrestlers — Moran, Rocca, and Kola — make their first appearance in Monroe Tuesday, and, as Kallio says, "I don't know whether the match will be any good or not but it should be from advance notices."

Top performer in the aggregation of stars is supposed to be Rocca, the Italian matman who migrated to Argentina to become the idol of all South America when in a tournament at Buenos Aires he was proclaimed the world's champion. South Americans, like North Americans, evidently proclaim their best gripster the world's champion.

According to Rocca's advance notices, he has won so many bouts that he has failed to keep track of them and has to travel by plane instead of by rail to be on time for his many mat engagements. Rocco's legs are the weapons that have enabled him to win most battles and he, according to reports, has had them insured for $200,000.

"Antonino is to wrestling what Babe Ruth was to baseball and Joe Louis to boxing," read his publicity notices. "No one has ever broken so many box office records. He is the man that comes once in a generation and it was his feats that brought about the great rejuvenation in the wrestling ranks that has made the sport of only popular among all classes of peoples, but also profitable for the promoters wherever he has appeared."

This last was affirmed by Kallio who reported that, "over a hundred seats have already been sold." Kallio went on to say that with the new seating arrangements in his arena that plenty of space was still available.

Russian born Kola Kwariani, according to Kallio, has never appeared in Monroe, although Kallio said that he (Kallio) has seen him wrestle before. "In fact," Kallio said, "we were on the same card at Hodges Field (Memphis) open air arena 14 years ago. His opponent was Joe DeVito, a heavyweight, and I wrestled Billy Love."

From that, the Russian must have been around a long time and Kallio thinks that he is the best he could get to try and handle the Italian matman.

Moran, the other newcomer to Monroe, is well - known otherwise in this area. Kallio stated that he had seen Moran wrestle "Dutch" Menndell in Amarillo, Tex. some time ago and that Mandell had lost the match along with four front teeth.

Baseball League Will Reorganize

Jonesboro, La., Feb. 16—(Special)—President R. W. McCasland of the Jackson - Bienville Baseball League has called a meeting of the circuit's directors for Monday night at the courthouse here.

The get - together will be for the purpose of reorganizing for the 1951 season. Teams with the league last year were Ansley, Danville, Simsboro, Chatham, Weston, and Quitman. Simsboro won the championship playoffs.

An effort will be made to expand to an eight - team league if enough new clubs are interested and have representatives at the Monday meeting, McCasland said.

Walcott Agrees To Face Charles

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, 38 - year - old heavyweight champion, will defend his crown for the first time in June and his opponent will be Ezzard Charles, the man from whom he unexpectdly won the title last July.

Weeks of neogtiations ended today when Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, announced that Walcott agreed to give Charles the first shot at the championship at a site to be selected.

Walcott immediately notified Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, that terms for the match had been closed and the exact date and site will be determined by Norris.

The announcement came two days before the deadline givn Walcott by the commission to sign to defend his title. The commission said it would vacate Jersey Joe's title if he didn't agree by Feb. 18 to meet a worthy contender.

DARK BOOTED OUT OF GOLF TOURNEY

Kretlow, Bartell, Abrams, Russell Gain Semi-Finals

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16. —(AP)— Lou Kretlow, fire - balling Chicago White Sox pitcher, knocked out defending Champion Al Dark of the New York Giants today as the field moved into the semi-finals of the Baseball Players' Golf Championship.

Kretlow, firing a three under par 32 on the first nine at the Miami Springs Country Club slammed home five birdies before he ended the match abruptly on the 14th, 5 and 4.

The 28 - year - old athlete, often urged to give up baseball for a pro golfing career, drove the 355-yard nine hole for the second day in succession. He got an eagle two yesterday but settled for a birdie today.

Rowdy Dick Bartell, Detroit Tiger coach, moved into a semi-final match with Kretlow by upsetting medalist Dizzy Trout of the Tiger pitching staff, 3 and 1.

Jack Russell, former Washington and Boston Red Sox pitcher, closed out Paul Waner, the Hall of Famer, with a brilliant burst of golf to win 6 and 5.

George Abrams, a Cincinnati pitcher in 1922-23, gained the other semi - final berth by defeating Connie Ryan of the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 and 4.

In the two semi-final 18 - hole matches tomorrow morning Kretlow faces Bartell and Abrams takes on Russell. The two winners meet in the 18-hole finals tomorrow afternoon.

Pres Askew Quits Porker Cage Post

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Presley Askew resigned today as head basketball coach at the University of Arkansas, faltering former cage kingpin of the southwest.

His ball-control system has been under the fire of fans for two of the three seasons he has directed the Razorbacks.

The resignation, effective July 1, was announced by Athletic Director John H. Barnhill while he was in Little Rock on a business trip.

The athletic director released a letter Askew had written him saying the action was being taken "for the best interests of the university."

'Babe' Parilli To Play For Green Bay Packers

Green Bay, Wis., Feb. 16. —(AP)— Vito (Babe) Parilli, the University of Kentucky's star quarterback, signed a 1952 contract today with the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League.

Parilli, holder of many collegiate passing records, was the Packers' No. 1 choice in the draft. His signing bulwarked the Green Bay club at the vital quarterback spot where only Tobin Rotee remained after Bob Thomason was returned to the Los Angeles Rams at the close of the 1951 season.

MILLERS ACCEPT PLACE VACATED BY CLARKSDALE

Move To Extend Season, Increase Total Games Fails

Greenville, Miss., Feb. 16. —(AP)— Meridian, Miss., was awarded the Clarksdale, Miss., franchise in the Class C Cotton States Baseball League today.

The awarding of the franchise at a meeting of the loop's directors here made the 51 - year - old an eight - club circuit for the 1952 season.

The directors' action came after Magnolia, Ark., reported it was definitely unable to enter the league this season. Previously Vicksburg, Miss., had telegraphed loop Pres. Al Haraway, Helena, Ark., that it could not take over the Clarksdale franchise.

An attempt to extend the 1952 playing season to 140 games failed when the directors could not reach an agreement. The league played 140 games in 1951, but the number of games this season was fixed at 126 at a meeting in November.

The directors' vote to extend the season ended in a deadlock and Haraway ruled that last November's action in setting the season at 126 games would prevail.

The 1952 season will open on April 22 and close on Aug. 26. A schedule will be drawn up and considered at a later meeting.

The Meridian club is headed by Charles Buckwalter and includes owners Clyde (Dough) Rawlings and B. C. Burns. They were among the six owners of the Meridian club which operated the Meridian Millers in the now-defunct Class B Southeastern League.

In addition to Meridian, the league now includes three other Mississippi cities, Greenville, Greenwood and Natchez; three in Arkansas, Hot springs, Pine Bluff and El Dorado; and Monroe, La. Buckwalter and Rawlings were present at today's meeting and made Meridian's application. All other clubs were represented except Natchez. Monroe held the Natchez proxy.

Final action on the Clarksdale franchise had been awaited for several weeks. Jackson, Miss., another former member of the the Southeastern League, had agreed to buy the franchise but later had to give it up due to inability to have a park in shape for the season opening. Clarksdale then considered the possibility of retaining the franchise, then abandoned the idea.

Meanwhile, a move began in Magnolia to buy the franchise. This failed, but Jim Griffith, league vice president, said today that Magnolia might be able to enter the loop in 1953 if there is an opening then.

BABE SETS PACE IN WEATHERVANE

Mrs. Zaharias Beats Men's Par For Opening Edge

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 16.—(AP)—Mechanical Mildred (Babe) Zaharias, knocking a stroke off men's par for the Normandy Shores course, grabbed the lead today in the first 18-hole lap of the $17,000 Weathervane coast-to-coast golf tournament.

Apparently undisturbed by a strong breeze that swept the fairways and bothered some of the less sturdy players, the bronzed Babe stroked a steady outgoing course of 37 and picked up speed as she covered the home stretch in 34.

Her 71 gave the great Tampa, Fla., athlete a two stroke edge over Louise Suggs, Carrollton, Ga. who reported 36-37—73. Men's par, for which the girls are shooting, is 36-36—72 for the 6,488 - yard layout.

Blonde Barbara Romack, up - and - coming 19 - year - old Sacramento, Calif., player, fired a 36-38—74 to finish third in the field of 74 and high among the 59 amateurs.

Another 18 holes here tomorrow will complete the first lap of the tournament. Other 36-hole stands are scheduled for April 11-12 at Houston, Tex., May 10-11 at Seattle, Wash., and May 31-June 1 in New York.

Prizes totaling $3,000 will be distributed among the low pros in each city and a final jackpot of $5,000 awaits the low shooter at the end of the 144-hole trail.

Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., former women's National Amateur champ, was fourth with a 75, one stroke ahead of long-hitting Betsy Rawls, Austin, Tex.

Tied for sixth place at 77 were Peggy Kirk, Ponte Verdra, Fla., and Betty Bush, Hammond, Ind.

Neville's Tigers, Busy With Spring Work, Face 10-Game Football Slate

Tallulah, Now Class A, Replaces Baton Rouge High

Spring training has begun for the Neville High School Tigers in preparation for the 1952 grid season with a large number of football hopefuls out to practice sessions, Coach Bill Ruple reports.

Although spring training will not get into full swing until basketball season ends in March, 35 boys have reported, with others expected to join soon. This is a very large number for the present, considering that this is about the same number reporting for training in the fall of last year.

Approximately 12 returning lettermen have reported for spring practice, with others expected to join soon.

Coach Ruple's squad will be heavier, and more experienced than last year, but will face approximately the same tough schedule, with the only change being Tallulah added to the list in place of the Baton Rouge eleven. Tallulah is now a Class A team and the latest addition to the district teams in northeast Louisiana.

The Tallulah squad should add something to district play, since they have had powerful teams consistently. Last year they were defeated by Delhi for the district Class B title. Delhi then advanced to win the Class B state title.

The complete 10 - game schedule will end during the week before Thanksgiving.

The schedule for 1952 is:

Sept. 5 —	Bolton, —	There
Sept. 12 —	Natchez, —	there.
Sept. 19 —	Homer, —	here.
Sept. 26 —	Rayville, —	there.

Oct. 10 —	Farmerville,	there.
Oct. 17 —	Ruston, —	here.

AGING PILASTER SCORES VICTORY

Leads 10 Younger Horses In Miami Beach 'Cap

Miami, Fla., Feb. 16. —(AP)—Mrs. Henry L. Straus' Pilaster, improving with age, led ten other younger horses home today to win the $15,000 - added Miami Beach Handicap on the grass at Hialeah.

Pilaster, at eight the oldest horse in the race, ran the mile and a half on the turn in 2:30.1 over a fast track and won by two lengths over Woolford farm's fast-closing Saxony.

C. B. Bohn's Why Not Now was third, two and a half lengths back of Saxony and half a length in front of Palatine stable's Chicle II, in the field of 11 three - year - olds and upward.

Chicle II set the track record for the distance two years ago at 2:29 flat, but he was no match for Pilaster today.

The eight - year - old Pilaster was tenth at the start but moved up rapidly, passing one horse after another as they rounded the club house turn. He took over the lead midway the stretch and by the time they reached the far elbow he was three lengths in front.

Pilaster, carrying 115 pounds—two less than he will carry in the Widener — went postward the favorite and paid $8.50, $4.20 and $3.30 in the $2 mutuels. Saxony returned $6.20 and $4.40 and Why Not Now paid $4.70 to show.

MAJORS PRIMED FOR SPRING TRAINING GRIND

ALL BIG LEAGUE CLUBS STARTING WORK THIS WEEK

Pitchers, Catchers, Rookies Answering First Call

New York, Feb. 16. —(AP)— The major league spring training season gets underway in earnest this week as all 16 teams begin conditioning for the 1952 baseball campaign.

The St. Louis Cardinals, New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates will be the first to get started. Each opens on Monday. The Cards will train at St. Petersburg, Fla., the Giants at Phoenix, Ariz., and the Pirates in San Bernardino, Calif. The other clubs will begin on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Only pitchers, catchers and rookies have been asked to report in the preliminary stages of the seven-week training grind. Regulars must report by March 1. Exhibition games, under the rules, cannot start before Saturday, March 8.

As in previous years, Florida leads in housing the most clubs, 10. Three clubs will train in Arizona and three in California.

The World Champion New York Yankees, who exchanged sites with the Giants last year, are back at St. Petersburg after one spring in Phoenix. St. Pete is the only city which is host to two big league clubs.

The rest of the Florida contingent lines up as follows: Cincinnati, Tampa Detroit, Lakeland; Boston Braves, Bradenton; Boston Red Sox, Sarasota; Philadelphia Phillies, Clearwater Philadelphia Athletics, West Palm Beach and Brooklyn, Vero Beach. The Dodgers, as they did last year, will switch to Miami when the regulars report.

The Giants return to Phoenix, Cleveland remains in Tucson and the Chicago Cubs switch from Catalina Islands to Mesa, Ariz. In addition to the Pirates, California will have the Chicago White Sox at Pasadena and the St. Louis Browns at Burbank.

Actually, four clubs — the Browns, Red Sox, Indians and Yankees — beat the gun. The Brownies, under the direction of Rogers Hornsby, their new manager, began preliminary workouts Feb. 1, about the same time Lou Boudreau opened his camp for Red Sox youngsters.

General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians launched a special batting school in Tucson last Friday, with such regulars as Luke Easter, Al Rosen, Ray Boone, Larry Doby and Jim Hegan attending. It was Greenberg's idea that the extra batting sessions under the expert eye of Tris Speaker and himself, might be of assistance to the Tribe which lacked the necessary punch to capture the American League flag in 1951. The Yankees opened their pre-training camp for rookies and other Yankee farmhands in Lake Wales, Fla., on Feb. 14.

Three managers will be making their bow as springtime skippers. They are Eddie Stanky of the Cards, Tommy Holmes of the Braves and Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs. Holmes and Cavarretta took over the reins of their respective clubs last June. Stanky became the Red Bird pilot last December. Hornsby and Boudreau, the other first year pilots, have had considerable big league managerial experience. Hornsby managed the Cards, Cubs, Braves and Browns while Boudreau put in 10 years as boss of the Indians before coming to Boston.

'Buddy' Blair Is Back In Baseball As Manager Of Alexandria's Aces

Monroe Sporting Goods Dealer Also Heads Office

Nathan L. "Buddy" Blair, one of Louisiana's best known athletes for two decades, has been named team manager and general manager of the Alexandria Aces of the Evangeline Baseball League.

Blair, after accepting the job, said here yesterday that he will leave this morning for Baton Rouge to attend an Evangeline League meeting scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock. He plans to go to Alexandria Wednesday to begin making arrangements to assemble his players, and to see to duties such as sale of box seats, advertising space of the Alexandria park fence and other incidentals that come under the job of general manager.

He said spring training for the Aces will begin March 24. Before then he will assist as an instructor at a baseball school in Shreveport to be conducted by the Shreveport Sports of the Texas League.

Blair, who is in a business partnership here with the Lockhart-Blair Sports Shop, was unattached last season after spending five years as skipper of the Vicksburg, Miss., club in the now defunct Southeastern League.

He was introduced to the major leagues by the New York Yankees who peddled him to the Philadelphia Athletics where he played third base until World War II. During the war he was attached to the physical training department at Selman Field, an army navigator school, here. He managed the Selman baseball team that won a Louisiana semi - pro championship in 1945, and he also skippered the Camp Livingston Station Hospital team that participated in the National Baseball Congress (semi - pro) tournament in 1943.

Blair, who is married and has a small daughter, remained on the Athletics' service roster during the war, but was given his release by Connie Mack so that he could accept the job as manager at Vicksburg. in 1946.

He attended Concordia parish schools until graduation from Ferriday High School. Later he became one of Louisiana State University's greatest athletes in baseball and track and has a place in L. S. U.'s athletic Hall of Fame.

Grand Junction, Tenn., Feb. 16. —(AP)— Remember Me, a bird dog owned by Dr. W. V. Garnier, Bastrop, La. is one of 46 dogs nominated for the 54th renewal of the National Field Trials championship starting here Monday.

All but five of the entries are pointers. Remember Me is the only Louisiana candidate for this biggest field trial of them all — the National Championship. Every dog entered is a champion in its own right. Only winners of major open field trials are eligible.

Paladin, a white and liver pointer owned by the A. G. C. Sage estate in New York, is the defending champion. He is back for another crack at the title.

SPIVEY AGREES TO QUESTIONING

Ready To Face 'Fix' Probe To Regain Eligibility

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 16. —(AP)— Bill Spivey, the Kentucky basketball center who wants his eligibility restored, agreed with directors of the school's athletic association today that he would appear before the New York grand jury.

The association told the seven-foot, All-America cager his eligibility "could not be reinstated so long as there is a question of his being involved in the basketball scandal."

The board added, though, if his testimony should satisfy it that he is innocent of any involvement in the scandal, he would be reinstated.

Spivey has denied any wrongdoing. Last Dec. 24 he asked his right to play be suspended until his name was cleared of any connection in the fix scandal. Spivey said his name had been mentioned, throwing unjust suspicion on him.

Elmer Drake, one of Spivey's attorneys, said the senior cager "wants to clear his name as soon as possible."

Vincent A. G. O'Connor, an assistant district attorney from New York, spent a week here last December in investigation of the cage scandal.

Spivey did not talk with him at that time. His condition that he be questioned in the presence of his attorney was termed not acceptable by the D. A.'s office.

O'Connor said then that "other" Kentucky players were involved but he mentioned no names.

Three former Kentuckians, Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and Dale Barnstable are awaiting trial on charges accusing them of controlling the point spread in a 1949 game.

KEN HENRY FIRST ON BLADES WITH M'DERMOTT 2ND

Beck's Ski Run Helps Americans To 34½ Total Points

Oslo, Feb. 16.—(AP)—An unprecedented one-two triumph for speed skaters Ken Henry and Don McDermott plus a topflight performance in the men's downhill ski race by collegian Bill Beck produced another star-spangled day today for Uncle Sam's forces in the sixth winter Olympics.

Henry, weakened by a siege of influenza and out of practice, zoomed to victory in the 500 meter skating race in 43.2 seconds, just a tenth of a second off the Olympic record held by Norway's Finn Helgesen.

Helgesen, who set the mark of 43.1 at the St. Moritz games in 1948, was a badly beaten fifth as Henry, wiry young Chicagoan, and McDermoot, 22-year - old drilling company employe from Englewood Cliffs, N. J., scored one of the biggest upsets in Olympic history.

McDermott streaked home in 43.9 for second place in the field of 42 speed demons from 14 nations who performed on slushy, melting ice before a crowd of 28,000 at Bislett Stadium.

Meanwhile, over at Norefjell, Beck, willowy 22 - year - old all-around athlete at Dartmouth College, turned in the best Olympic showing ever by an American male skier by finishing fifth in the downhill race.

This event, the only other championship decided on the third day of these colorful games, was won by Zeno Colo a balding little Italian wood-chooper, who they said was getting too old for this rugged sport.

Colo, 32, showed them by shooting down the mile and a half, wooded mountainside in two minutes, 30.8 seconds to tie the course record. Two Austrians, Othmar Schneider and Christian Pravda, were his closest pursuers in that order.

With five of the 21 championships now decided, the United States holds a surprisingly strong lead for the unofficial team championship with a total of 34½ points. Points are awarded for the first six places on a 10-5-4-3-2-1 basis. Austria followed with 26. Then came Norway 18, Germany 14, Italy 13 and Switzerland 12.

The United States also got off to a good start in the women's figure skating competition — the glamorous sport that produced Sonja Henie and Canada's Barbara Ann Scott—with three of the top ten leaders after the first day's maneuvers.

With three of the five phases in the difficult compulsory, or school figures, skating completed, America produced a real surprise in 16-year-old Tenley Albright of New Center, Mass.

The graceful New England schoolgirl was second to the leader and heavily ranked favorite, Jeannette Altwegg of Great Britain, while the U. S. and North American champion, Sonya Klopfer of Long Island City, N. Y., was fourth.

PHIL D. WINNER OF SAN ANTONIO

Gets Revenge Over Intent; Hill Prince Scratched

Arcadia, Calif., Feb. 16.—(AP)—The feared Hill Prince stayed in the barn today and the gate was left open for a surprise winner in the $25,000 San Antonio Handicap.

Little Phil D., who was purchased as a youngster for the paltry sum of $1,500, provided the surprise with a close but well won victory in the mile and one-eighth feature at Santa Anita Park.

The gamester from Kentucky, a disappointment in the recent rich Santa Anita Maturity, got revenge on the winner of that event with a nose edge triumph over Intent.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's prized mare, Bed O' Roses, making a belated challenge, got up for third in the field of 11.

All are eligible for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap March 1, but Hill Prince, who was scratched a short time before post time, is still the horse to beat in the big race two weeks hence.

Phil D., overlooked after his poor Maturity showing, paid off at $23.50, $10.60, and $5.70; Intent $7.20 and $4.50, and Bed O' Roses $3.20.

The co-feature, the $20,000 Santa Susana Stakes for fillies, was won by Season's Best, with Hadassah second and Your Hostess third.

Season's Best paid $9.10, $6.40 and $2.50; Hadassah $16.30 and $3.60; Your Hostess $2.10.

Jackie Jensen Agrees To Terms Of Yankees

New York, Feb. 16.—(AP)— Jackie Jensen, one of the aspirants for Joe DiMaggio's vacated center field post with the New York Yankees, has signed his 1952 contract, the club announced today.

Jensen, 28th Yankee to sign, will go to the St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp early to work out with pitchers and catchers. He wrote the front office to advise he was in fine shape and ready to go, which knocked down reports he was dissatisfied with the Yankees.

This leaves only one outfielder—Hank Bauer—unsigned. Jensen who played part of last year with Kansas City, hit .298 in 56 games with the Yankees.

goal in the National Football League is 54 yards kicked by Glenn Presnell of Detroit in 1934.

COLLEGE HEADS GIVE APPROVAL TO DE-EMPHASIS

In Full Accord With Bowl Bans, Other Proposals

Washington, Feb. 16. —(AP)— The executive committee of the American Council on Education tonight unanimously approved a plan which would clamp strict controls on college sports.

In doing so, the committee ignored recommendations made by the National Collegiate Athletic Association earlier today that some of the rules be softened. The N. C. A. A. had suggested that controlled spring football practice be allowed, and that no ban be put on football bowl games until a study of the question is completed.

Instead, the executive committee adopted a plan which would greatly change some practices now common in college athletics.

In adopting, with only minor reservations, the code drawn up by 11 college presidents, the executive committee decided that:

1. Football games and practices should be kept strictly within the season, from Sept. 1 to the first Saturday in December. This would not only eliminate all bowl games, but would cut out spring practice.

2. Outright athletic scholarships shoul dbe abolish d e . should be abolished.

3. Basketball practice and games should be limited to a three and a half month period, which could fall anywhere between Nov. 1 and March 15, at the school's option.

4. Baseball practice should be limited to three and a half months, between Feb. 1 and the end of the school year.

5. All athletes should make regular progress toward a degree.

6. No freshmen should be allowed to play on varsity teams.

7. All athletic funds should be handled by the university. This means that booster clubs would be barred unless the money they raise is turned over to the school.

When does the plan go into effect?

"Why, it's in effect right now," Everett Case, president of Colgate and head of the executive committee, told a news conference.

Phillis Layne New Manager Of Pine Bluff Ball Club

Pine Bluff, Ark., Feb. 16.—(AP)— Phillis Layne, 33-year-old veteran minor league infielder,today was appointed manager of the Pine Bluff Judges of the Class C Cotton States League.

Layne, who won the 1947 batting championship of the Pacific Coast League, spent last year with Anderson, S. C., in the Tri-State League and San Antonio in the Texas League. He took over as manager of Anderson in mid-season. The club finished out of the first division.

A native of Whitwell, Layne makes his home at Chattanooga, where he played in 1946.

He played with the Washington Senators of the American League in 1944 and 1945. He participated in 61 games in 1945, hitting .299.

Layne won the Pacific Coast batting title while playing with Seattle. He hit .367 and also was the best fielding third baseman of the AAA league.

He succeeds Bobby Richards as playing manager of the Judges.

Wagner, Over 40 Years In Baseball, Retires

By Joe Bradis

Pittsbufgh, Feb. 16. —(AP)— Honus Wagner, generally rated the greatest shortstop of 'em all, put away his spikes and uniform for keeps today after more than 40 years of baseball.

Honus Wagner

The Pittsburgh Pirates, with whom he spent 37 of his 40 seasons on the diamond — 19 as coach and 18 as a player — retired the barrel-chested Dutchman on a pension just eight days before his 78th birthday.

Wagner's uniform—ole No. 33—will be retired permanently by the club. It marks the first time that any player's number has been retired by the Bucs.

"Shucks," chortled Honus as he greeted newspapermen and photographers at his modest home in nearby Carnegie, "how about that."

"Guess old father time has caught up with me. Never knew anybody to retire so young.

"Heck, the season is just about to get under way and here I am retiring. It sure took a long time."

One of the first members elected to baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., the bow-legged "Flying Dutchman" was second only to Ty Cobb in the number of votes received.

The hulking shortstop began his playing career in 1895. He bowed out as an active player in 1917 with a life-time batting average of .329 over a span of 21 years in the big leagues.

To what does he attribute his success on the diamond? Well, he guessed it was because he never tried to outshine anyone.

"I just played to win," remarked Honus.

His oldest brother Charles wanted him to be a barber. He still feels he got and gave many a close shave on the diamond.

Old timers describe him this way: "He walks like a crab, plays like an octopus and hits like the devil."

His legs took off at the ankles in an upward sweep to meet in surprise at the belt line. His thick, powerful shoulders and massive arms and hands put terrific power behind his wagon-tongue bat.

Lefty Gomez, former New York Yankee pitcher, said Honus was the only man who could tie his shoe strings without bending. But perhaps the greatest compliment paid Wagner came from the late John McGraw. He called him the "greatest player in baseball history."

It took Wagner just two and a half years to break into big time. He played his first major league game on July 19, 1897.

Honus broke into the major with Louisville, Ky. When the club folded in 1889 and the franchise was transferred to Pittsburgh, Wagner and 13 other players went to the steel city. Some of the first fans to greet Honus were his neighbors and Honus still delights living over the old days with these friends.

In his first season with the Pirates, the Dutchman drew only $300 a month, a considerable hike over the $35 per month he got when he signed his first contract with Steubenville, O.

It's an old story how he rode to Steubenville in a caboose. He asked $40 a month; got $35, would have taken less.

The next season with the Pirates his salary was doubled. His pay for the next five seasons was $5,000 and a big fat $10,000 in 1908—big money in those days.

Since a flu attack in 1949, the great shortstop hasn't been the same. He has by-passed the Pirates' spring training jaunts to California but managed to get out a few games a season to watch his beloved Bucs from the dugout.

Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pirates declared:

"Honus deserves everything. He is essentially a part of the American baseball picture and particularly the Pittsburgh Pirates. He's got a free run of the place as long as he lives."

Bernstein Park Ponds Will Get More Fish

Judge David I. Garrett, chairman of the improvement program committee at Bernstein park, Leon DeLee, manager of the Monroe Fish Hatchery and J. T. Thoman, president of the Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Wildlife association, made a survey of the park Saturday and announced plans for restocking ponds.

The group inspected ponds which are now being cleaned out under the supervision of Johnny Simmons, commissioner of streets and parks.

Plans for restocking the ponds are underway. It was also announced that the ponds will be made available to children fourteen years of age and under. Fishing poles and baits will be available from the caretaker at Bernstein park.

We, the undersigned, have known Robert F. Kennon for more than a quarter of a century. Some of us have been associated with him in the military service for nearly 25 years. We feel that the uncalled for attacks made on his military record—which is not an issue in this campaign—should not pass unchallenged.

This record, in the office of The Adjutant General of Louisiana, is as follows:

Commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant in the ORC in 1923. Reorganized Company "H" 156th Infantry. Commissioned 1st Lieutenant in 1925. Promoted to Captain in 1925. Built armory in Minden. Commissioned Major in 1940, and assigned as Battalion Commander. Transferred, with his entire Battalion, to the 204th (CAC) Anti Air Craft Regiment. Promoted to Lieutenant Colonel the latter part of December, 1940. Inducted into the Federal Service January 6th, 1941. Battalion Commander until the spring of 1942. Graduated from Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and selected as assistant G-3 of 13th Army Corps. Placed in charge of all Corps Anti-Air Craft operations. Over-seas with 13th Corps in 1944. Six months actual combat duty. Returned to U. S. in July, 1945. Promoted to Colonel. Separated from the service in the fall of 1945.

He served as commander of the Minden National Guard Company, Co. "H" 156th infantry, for 14 years, long, tedious and exacting service in peace time when little glory and much work and personal sacrifice were attendant with such duty.*

*At the time he was called into active service on January 6, 1941, he had been elected Judge of the Court of Appeals. He could have claimed exemption from military service on that account, but being a true patriot and a man of high ideals he gladly obeyed his country's call and served it well and faithfully at a great personal sacrifice.

Throughout these years we have found him to be a man whose character, honesty and integrity, personal and military, are above reproach.

tain of wrapped Holsum bread lying in a pile in the middle of the street. Nearby was a pasteboard box which had evidently slipped off from a bread wagon all unnoticed.

"That bread's good and not harmed, and someone will come out short," , ejaculated Moore., "I'm going to pick it up, keep it in the bus and see that the bread truck driver gets it back, I don't want him to come up short!"

And this is just what he did, as admiring passengers in their attitude gave assent to his little "good deed."

Bob Harmon, Monroe's biggest baseball enthusiast and former big league player, Saturday derived more fun than did about 50 little youngsters at St. Matthew's cafeteria. It had been proposed that hot cakes and sausage (all one could eat) would be provided for an even half dollar as a benefit for the Little ball league. For two days Friday and Saturday, the public of Monroe suddenly became "hot cake and sausage minded".

This information was enough for Bob Harmon. He invited all the youngsters he had under his wing on the diamond last summer and for good measure a few additions to the ranks. All these required no second invitation. They all bounced into cafeteria lines and got generous helpings, and more still if they desired. They showed tremendous appetites and happier than any of them was Bob Harmon himself.

Later it was said that they about cleaned out the foodstuff supply but every one went away filled to the brim and joyous. A good-sized pile of money was taken in the two days the project operated and it will all go to the Little League fund.

ad that he had arrived at this decision after many conferences with Kennon.

In conclusion Passman asked the crowd to consider what the connection was between Frank Costello, Rickerfor, Chep Morrison and Kennon.

John McKeithen, candidate for lieutenant governor on the Spaht ticket, quoted a friend in Winnsboro as saying that "Kennon had stated that after he was elected governor he was going to run against Russell Long in 1954 for the senate and then for president of the United States."

The candidate for lieutenant governor stated that the Spaht ticket would see that the benefits, which the present administration instituted, were continued and that the highway construction program would continue to improve Louisiana roads.

Referring to Kennon's record McKeithen stated that he had been running for different offices since he was 21 years old. "If anyone is a professional politician, Kennon is."

McKeithen said "if you show me a man in a Cadillac I'll show you a man for Kennon; if you show me a man in khaki I'll show you a man for Spaht."

Mrs. Carlos Spaht speaking at the rallies stated that her husband, Judge Spaht, had a great heart, great mind and a good conscience. "He will exert every possible effort to make Louisiana one of the greatest governor's it has ever had," said Mrs. Spaht.

First Boy Scout Troop Formed In Monroe 1910

The Boy Scout movement in Ouachita parish has progressed a long way since its beginning in 1910 with only 13 members — today the local movement is composed of 2,643 boys.

The first original troop was organized in Monroe by the late Issac Cowden, commissioner, with Osie W. Zeagler as scoutmaster.

Preceeding this action a number of local businessmen, who were desirous to organize a troop since the original movement of the Boy Scouts was spreading throughout the country, met to discuss the matter. Included in this meeting were the late Judge Charles Schulze, of the city police court, Hessel Cahn, Charles Titche, O. B. Morton Zeagler, and Cowden, who was manager of the local newsboys.

Zeagler serves as scoutmaster from 1910 to 1917 with A. G. Herring as assistant. The troop met at the old Sugar theater every Sunday. Meetings generally comprised a lecture on behavior and morals given by Commissioner Cowden and Scoutmaster Zeagler. Short hikes were taken at times, the destination being Forsythe Park, then far out of town. The Scout handbook was in use at that time, but scouting as it is now known was not indulged in.

Most of the boys had uniforms or pants thereof and each scout was furnished a wooden pole about one and one-half inches in diameter by about six feet long. The purpose of these poles was to aid the scout in jumping small streams, for use in improvising stretchers, building small bridges and forming barriers.

The scout salute was taught and practiced and the scout oath instilled in the minds of the boys. There was no court of honor. The boys engaged in knot typing, making fires by rubbing sticks together, cooking, studying astronomy, fire fighting, first aid and other activities leading to merit badges for those gaining proficiency in the respective subjects.

There was no assistance from the scoutmasters in the way of instructing to get merit badges — the boys were on their own initiative in digging up the knowledge. Nor were the examinations necessary to earn a badge. There were no formalities when awarding badges nor did the troop possess the badges themselves. Several boys earned sufficient merit badges to become first class scouts.

The uniforms during those days comprised a khaki blouse and breeches with canvas leggings.

The forerunner of the Boy Scouts in Monroe was an organization called "Boy Pioneer" conducted by the late Dan Breard through the medium of a national monthly magazine. When the Boy Scout movement became a striking force the "Boy Pioneers" disbanded, some entering the scout troop.

In 1920 a second troop was formed by F. X. Shaughnessy with 18 boys. A memorable event was the holding of a joint meeting with the two troops at the old Knights of Columbus hall on Grammont street where 45 boys gathered.

In 1922 Shaughnessy secured financial aid and remodeled the old public library on Wood street. There the scouts met for two years.

The Ouachita Valley council was organized in 1924 and received a charter in 1925.

The executive board was headed by the late T. L. James, of Ruston as president with Jack Keith serving as the first executive scoutmaster. Keith is now scout master in St. Louis, Mo. There were 63 adult members of the council and 32 troops with a membership of 641 boys.

Today the council has 123 units with a membership of 2,643. A. B. Clarkson is president of the council and Merle Edwards is executive scoutmaster. There are also 1,111 adult members.

COTTON

New York

New York, Feb. 16. — — An avalanche of selling drove cotton futures prices sharply lower today. Failure of the market to attract increased buying at current levels was mainly responsible for the liquidating movement. Cotton prices have been sagging during most of the week. Dealers said that the weak price structure reflects pessimistic reports over prospective consumption for this season. The slow cotton goods trade and declining textile prices were added considerations.

Futures closed $1.10 to $1.95 a bale lower than the previous close.

New Orleans

New Orleans, Feb. 16.—(AP)—Cotton futures broke as much as $3.50 a bale here today under heavy liquidation before week-end short covering caused partial recoveries.

Closing prices were barely steady $1.15 to $2.35 a bale lower.

Trading was in tremendous volume around the opening due to an accumulation overnight of many selling orders. Ring traders said the selling seemed to be based mainly on the continued disappointing sales in dry goods markets where prices showed further declines this week.

At times the market was almost bare of support which was limited mostly to scale down covering by shorts.

Also lacking was the demand from foreign mills which was a sustaining influence on prices early yesterday.

Middling 15/16-inch spot cotton declined $2.50 a bale to 39.45 cents a pound. Local spot sales amounted to 604 bales.

BEEN BUMPED LATELY?

"Some motorists have been bumped and generally pushed around all winter."

Besides dented fenders—there are busted grills, broken doors and running boards and cracked rear decks. Perhaps all rusted badly too.

Don't shy off because of cost—our prices are reasonable, our metal men and painters experts. Let us give you a free estimate.

$150 - $250 PER WEEK

I want 2 neat appearing men, with cars, to represent an old national concern, one of the largest of its kind in the country, with offices established throughout the state. If you are willing to work hard for $150 and up per week and you are able to work in the State of Louisiana Monday through Friday, don't pass up this ad. If you are a man of average intelligence, I want to talk to you. I know what you are probably thinking as you read this ad, the same I thought to myself many times when I was out job hunting, that this is just another ad with a lot of promises. Believe me, fellows, it is not. It is—years since I joined this firm and I regret to this day it wasn't 20 years ago. I have made more money in the past — years with this firm than I earned with other firms in the previous 20 years. I don't care what your previous experience has been, whether it was selling magazines, books, vacuum cleaners, appliances, pictures coupons, or any other type of work, if you are able to open your mouth and talk to me I will show you how easy it is to earn up to $250 a week with this company. Experience is not necessary, we give you a complete training. If accepted you will be employed by one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country. You will be backed by millions of dollars in advance, advertising. This advertising will keep you busy constantly, calling on prospects in your territory, with qualified leads sent in by people demanding that our representative call on them. This is a job with security for the rest of your life. Get in on the ground floor. You owe it to yourself to answer this ad. You have nothing to lose and everything to gain. Come in and let us prove to you that this is what you have been waiting for.

O'CONOR URGES

himself in a criminal proceeding. Mr. Truman has proposed that in cases where witnesses invoke this constitutional provision, Morris be empowered to grant them immunity from prosecution. Then they could be compelled to testify.

Attorney General McGrath has taken the position that it would be advisable to grant some minor offenders immunity if necessary to get at any big wrongdoers in government.

Morris, a New York Republican, was chosen by the president and Attorney General McGrath to direct the job of uncovering misdeeds in the government. Morris plans to start with an investigation of the justice department, which McGrath heads.

O'Conor is a member of the senate judiciary committee, which will pass on the presidential request for immunity powers for Morris as well as a companion request that Morris be authorized to subpoena people and documents.

O'Conor said he favors granting subpoena power. That authority, he said, would be sufficient to assure "a thorough - going probe."

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.), another member of the judiciary committee, said he also favors giving subpoena power to Morris, who has been appointed a special assistant to the attorney general.

But like O'Conor, Ferguson said he will fight any move to give any individual powers to grant immunity from presecution.

82ND AIRBORNE PARATROOPER

A paratrooper of the 82nd Airborne Division tries out the "Aggressor" uniform to get the feel of it. He, along with the other members of the division, will don the green uniform of the make-believe "Aggressor Nation" when they play the part of the "Aggressor Enemy" against U. S. Forces in "Exercise Longhorn," the joint Army-Air Force training maneuver to be held in the Fort Hood, Texas area during March and April.

WAR CASUALTY

PFC. EDWIN C. RYALS

SOLDIER'S BODY BEING RETURNED

P. F. C. Ryals' Body Will Arrive In Monroe Thursday

The body of Pfc. Edwin Cornelius Ryals, who was killed November 2, 1951, while serving with the eighth cavalry division in Korea, will arrive in Monroe Thursday on the Missouri Pacific at 6:45 p.m. The casket will be given a military escort from Oakland, Calif., where it leaves tomorrow, by Sgt. Robert Saathoff.

Immediately after arrival in Monroe the body will be taken to Mulhearn Funeral Home, where it will lie in state. A short prayer service will be held at the funeral home at 2 p.m. Friday.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. at the Memorial Park Baptist church with the Rev. R. L. Ross officiating. Interment will be in the Riverview cemetery. The Louisiana National Guard will participate in the graveside services.

Pfc. Ryals was born and reared in Monroe, having attended the public schools before enlisting in the army in June of 1950.

He was the son of Mrs. Mary E. Smith of Camden, Ark., and the late Jesse B. Ryals, Monroe fire department captain.

In addition to his mother he is survived by one brother, the Rev. J. B. Ryals of Fort Worth, Tex., two uncles, Frank Kirby, Ouachita parish deputy sheriff, and A. R. Kirby, both of Monroe three aunts, Mrs. Ed Mills, Beaumont, Tex., Mrs. J. P. Brown, Pampa, Tex., and Mrs. C. V. Johnson, Chicago, Ill.

AIRBORNE

eighth major post war maneuver in which the division has taken part since returning to the United States in 1946 from Europe.

Major General Charles D. W. Canham, commanding general of the 82nd airborne division, will lead his unit during the training maneuver.

As a training maneuver, "Exercise Longhorn" is designed to give recently re - activated divisions an opportunity to demonstrate their tactical situations which will force them to react to problems for which they may be unprepared.

The 31st and 47th Infantry Divisions, National Guard units from the southeastern states and Minnesota, respectively, and the 1st Armored Division from Fort Hood will constitute the "American Force." This will mark the first maneuver for each of these three units since their re-activation last year. The Ninth and 18th Air Forces will provide tactical air support for both sides.

After arrival at Fort Hood, which is located near Waco in central Texas, members of the 82nd will receive "Aggressor" training. An "Aggressor Force" aims at operating under a different set of rules so that the "Defenders" can't predict their movements in advance or know what will occur in a given instance.

The maneuvers begin on the twenty - fifth of March, will last seventeen days and draw to a conclusion on the 11th of April. By May first the division will be back at Fort Bragg, where post-maneuver critiques will be held.

COMPLAINTS AT

engages in what the board considers improper practices.

Cleaves succeeded Lt. Col. Joel T. Walker, transferred to the far east, as chairman of the board.

Cleaves explained that by "illegal and unsanitary establishments' the board means places which allow unlawful gambling, prostitution or dope peddling and which, if they serve food or beverages, do not conform to "accepted health standards."

He said Barksdale officers have been checking that area in recent weeks to determine whether any complaints would be lodged with the board when it meets there.

"Two places in that area were mentioned when we met last month in Orange," he said, "but at that time there was insufficient evidence to justify action against either."

He said he did not know for sure if any formal complaints concerning establishments near Barksdale would be filed with the board when it meets there approximately 11:10 p. m. The driver of the truck, Robert T. DeSadier, 41, Route 5, Shreveport, escaped injury.

MAN KILLED

State police said Stephenson was on the wrong side of the road when he met the huge truck, a D. C. Hall Transfer autocar with trailer. In an apparent attempt to dodge the oncoming automobile the driver of the van, DeSaider, turned his truck to the left side of the road and met the car head-on, state police said. The entire front of the automobile was smashed into the body of the car and under the hood of the truck. The automobile was pushed approximately 30 feet from the place of the collision.

Carl Jourdan, Route 2, Downsville, who was traveling behind Stephenson just before the fatal accident, reported that he, Stephenson passed him "in a careless and very reckless manner." Shortly thereafter the two vehicles collided.

R. D. Smith, 712 Delhi street, Bossier City, who was also driving a Hall Transfer truck, was approximately 500 feet behind DeSadier when the wreck occurred. He agreed with DeSadier that Sephenson was on the DeSadier's side of the road at the time of the accident.

The body was brought to Monroe by a Mulhearn ambulance.

Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita parish coroner, has notified the driver of the truck and witnesses as well as investigating state troopers of an inquest which will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at his office.

Stephenson is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Robie Hood, Ruston, and Mrs. Louise Griggsby, Tallulah; one son, Edward of Dubach; one brother, Willie Stephenson, Lilly; three half - brothers, Jim Patton, Hico, Joe Patton, Arcadia, and R. T. Patton, Arizona, La.; one sister, Mrs. Effie Lloyd, Hico; and one half - sister, Mrs. Maggie Allen, Fort Worth, Tex.

KENNON ATTACKS LONG CANDIDATE

Minden Judge Addresses Rally At Ferriay, La.

Ferriday, La., Feb. 16.—Judge Robert F. Kennon delivered his final address of Fifth Congressional district primary campaiging at Ferriday today in near-freezing weather. Telling his chilled listeners that the reason he has not resigned his post as appellate judge to run for governor was because he didn't want Gov. Earl K. Long to appoint "one of his political friends" to the judgeship.

"I didn't resign because I wanted to keep Governor Long from appointing one of his men," Kennon said. "Instead I'd rather wait until I become governor and appoint a good man to the position." Previously the north Louisiana jurist had stated that the same set of regulations that exempted a judge could not run for public office stated that a judge should not serve in the armed forces of his country.

"A judge is supposed to be an old man who sits behind a desk and does nothing but render decisions," Kennon had said earlier in the campaign, in reply to charges by administration-sponsored Carlos Spaht that he (Kennon) should resign his judgeship. "But I don't think that's right. I think a judge should have the right to fight for his country, if he wants to, and should have the right to speak up when he thinks he should."

Kennon again hit the state administration on counts of waste and extravagance of the taxpayers' money. He charged that the present welfare system was "too complicated, "and that there was too much red tape connected with the welfare department's administration.

"They tell me—of course, I'm not saying that it's so—but they tell me that at Baton Rouge they have a chart worked up which translates calories into money, and they use that in administering welfare funds and the old age pension," Kennon said. "If a man shoots a fox squirrel, they deduct a dollar and a half from his pension check. If he shoots a cat squirrel it costs him a dollar and a quarter. A rabbit is worth seventy-five cents and a possum is worth fifty cents. And I even understand that they've decided how many crawfish it takes to equal a pound of possum meat."

Kennon again outlined his proposal to let boards of "decent, independent men" administer the state's big spending agencies, saying that these men who "would not be interested in making money off the state," could administer the welfare department, in addition to other agencies with a minimum of red tape," and "a little common gumption."

Speaking with Judge Kennon were Jack Howard. H. D. Ruffin and Lloyd Leonard, Monroe businessmen. Other members of Kennon's ticket spoke in other sections of the state with first primary eliminated candidates James M. McLemore and Lt. Gov. William Dodd.

Allied opinion was that the added "etc." probably meant the Reds wanted to drag in other outstanding Asian problems not related to the Korean war.

LA. GOVERNOR

Boggs ran third behind Kennon.

Spaht led the field in the first primary with the support of Gov. Long and his political organization. The governor actively campaigned with Spaht throughout the state.

After the first primary's results were tabulated, the other candidates—including Boggs — urged their followers to support Kennon in the runoff. They united against Gov. Long; but Senator Long personally remained silent.

The issues in this runoff campaign have been similar in root to the issues in the first primary —Long vs. Anti-Long.

Political division runs deep in Louisiana, the political inheritance from the days of Huey Long.

A total of some 981,000 registered for the first primary, and approximately 760,000 voted. Lists were reopened for the second primary, and a total of 1,014,877 are registered for it. Polls open at 6 a. m. (C. S. T.) and close at 7 p. m. (C. S. T.) except in four parishes where they close at 9 p. m. (C. S. T.). The four are Caddo (Shreveport); Calcasieu (Lake Charles); East Baton Rouge (Baton Rouge); and Jefferson (part of greater New Orleans).

The vote for candidates in the first primary showed; Spaht, 173,-987; Kennon 163,434; Boggs 142,-542; James McLemore, wealthy Alexandria cattleman who had extensive daily newspaper support, 116,405; Lt. Gov. William Dodd, 90,925; Dudley LeBlanc, former patent medicine (Hadacol) manufacturer, 62,906; Kermit Parker, first Negro candidate since reconstruction days, 5,470; Lucille May Grace, first woman candidate, 4,-832; and Cliff Liles of Lake Charles, who favored legalized gambling, 1,233.

Spaht pledged that if he were elected he would continue the program of Gov. Long, including his welfare program and the $50 a month old age pensions, road building and other benefits.

He told the voters, the most heavily taxed in the nation, he could not promise any tax reduction in the benefits they now receive.

To charges that he would be a "stooge" of Gov. Long, he replied that while he would not disregard the advice of anyone, he would arrive at gubernatorial decisions independently.

Kennon campaigned on a platform of freeing the legislature from the control of the governor, eliminating waste he said exists in the present administration, and reducing taxes.

He contended that the governor is presently too powerful and that through control of state spending in the 64 parishes he could whip into line any recalcitrant lawmaker who did not want to vote as the governor indicated.

Kennon proposed to put the major state spending agencies under independent boards of citizens, appointed from 25 or more civic groups selected by the legislature as representative. He said this would free the legislature and restore balance between the legislative and administrative branches of government.

He said such boards, effecting economies, could reduce the cost of state government and make possible a reduction of two cents per gallon in the state from nine to seven cents and a low income tax exemptions up to $5,000.

Spaht countered that such citizen boards would not be responsible to either the people or to the governor and would open the way to misspending.

And, he said, any reduction in the state gasoline tax would be "devastating" to the state's road program.

Four other statewide races will also be decided in the voting.

Passman, Dodd Supporter Argue At Natchitoches

Reports that Congressman Otto Passman and a Natchitoches man had engaged in fisticuffs following Passman's encounter with Lt. Gov. Bill Dodd here Friday turned out to be merely heated words between the congressman and J. L. Deblieux, according to T. J. Stevens, Natchitoches police chief, who witnessed the verbal encounter.

The argument at Natchitoches was reported to have occurred as Passman, speaker at a Carlos Spaht political rally at Natchitoches, was leaving the speaker's platform. Stevens said the congressman was stopped by Deblieux who asked him "did you have a hard time whipping Bill Dodd?"

Passman replied and Deblieux followed the congressman to the lobby of the auditorium. Stevens said he asked Deblieux to leave the rally when the argument resumed in the lobby. No blows were struck in the verbal exchange, Stevens said.

VOTE SPAHT

To The Voters of Ward Three

Let me again thank you for your votes in the first Primary. Your loyalty in going to the polls and voting, makes me high man out of sixteen candidates running for Police Juror of Ward Three. Your continued support and the cooperation of the many voters whose candidate was eliminated, will be greatly appreciated.

I am still an independent candidate. Running strictly on my own qualifications and not supported by any particular group or faction.

My purpose in seeking this office is to serve, not only my ward, but the community in which I live. Too, to bring before the Police Jury, of our Parish, the needs in Ward Three, which are many.

I am still for better city and Parish government. If elected to this office I am going to do my utmost to work in harmony with other members of the Police Jury.

For the past 28 years I have been a resident of Ward Three. This has given me a good opportunity to know my Ward. At the present I am Vice - President of Southern Lumber & Box, Inc., President of Monroe Kiwanis Club, member of the First Baptist Church, where I have served on the Board of Deacons for the past twenty years, President of Board of Trustees of Louisiana Baptist Childrens Home, an institution which cares for approximately 175 orphaned boys and girls. Also Vice-Chairman Board of Directors of Ouachita Parish Welfare, and Civilian Defense Director of City of Monroe. I have been active in Boy and Girl Scout work for many years. Just recently served as Chairman of a committee to build a girl scout camp. Located about five miles from Sterlington, Louisiana. The camp is now completed and in use.

At the present I am serving on a committee of citizens of Monroe to clean up and re-build Bernstein Park, thus giving the people of Ward Three and the South Side of Monroe, a beautiful park and play ground. We as residents of Ward Three know of the need for such a place where families might go for picnics and recreation.

Let me urge you once more to go to the Polls February 19, and V O T E for three and I hope you will choose me as one of the three.

Sincerely yours,

Lawrence B. Pettit

Mrs. Irving Wolff Hostess At Miro Book Club Meeting

Mrs. F. L. Smith Reviews Book At February Event

The regular meeting of the Miro Book Club was held Monday afternoon in the beautiful home of Mrs. Irving Wolff in Marie Place.

Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, president, expressed appreciation on seeing a full membership in attendance. Many brought old clothing for a box to be shipped to worthy families in Germany. This project is one in which Mrs. Thomas Jett has been interested for several years. All committee reports showed the chairmen were indeed on their toes in an effort to make their particular project a success.

Mrs. Mulhern, after completion of routine business, turned the meeting over to the program chairman, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell who introduced Mrs. F. L. Smith. The latter gave a review of the book: "How to Win an Argument with a Communist", by Ray W. Sherman, in a very informative fashion.

Mrs. Smith gave, first, a summary of the author, telling of his birthplace in upper New York state, how he was the third of six children and how he worked from the time he was physically able to do so. His labors were many and of a great variety: blacksmith's helper, carpenter, grocery clerk, and survey's helper. Later he turned to academic life and attended Syracuse University where he graduated with a degree of Ph. B. Mr. Sherman succeeded in the field of journalism, doing editorial work for Hearst magazines. His many jobs gave him opportunities to know the common man in the street. His interest in this particular character became his paramount ambition. He found we were in a serious national situation and that we had let ourselves be outsmarted by "ismites" and had failed to make use of historic facts.

With this background, Mrs. Smith began to unfold her story. A question at the very opening of the book strikes us: "Why do so many become Communists? Is it with a vision to make the world better where happiness would be the lot of every man? For there are good things about communism though these are outweighed by things not so good. The communist excels in attack, but is least good on defense; that is why there are many attacks on our system of life; Americanism, while he gives no explanation on defense of communism. Man wants his happiness. From Plato, the philosopher to Marx, men have built Utopias in their minds, others have tried to make these realities but failure succeeded failure. Many have come to America to try their new ventures and build Utopian communities. All uselessly. In our modern times, these efforts continued with the same results. "Everyone a king" resounded once through Louisiana. Kingship did not buy happiness.

The writer gives a detailed analysis of and comments on "the Communist Manifesto" of Marx whose everlasting pounding on the pessimistic phase of life becomes depressing. His followers make much of business depressions, exploitation of the many by the few. This 'Manifesto' clearly states that the purpose of Communists is to arouse hatred. But hatred never made for happiness. The Communists could not build the United States of America we have today, but now that it is built, they would take it over. We must keep the heritage that is ours. This vigilance in behalf of Americanism is not something for us alone. It is trust we must pass on to our own children and their children.

The best way to win our argument with a Communist is never to give him a chance to make a speech but give him facts that show the superiority of our non-Communist system."

Mrs. Wolff's home was a veritable flower garden: large vases holding red gladiolas were placed at vantage points; in the dining room, hall and bedrooms. This accentuated the artistic value of the antiques found all through the house. The hostess has also a rare collection of lamps in every conceivable shape, variety and beauty and with these a wealth of other fine pieces of rare qualities, convincing the most skeptical that all these were selected by 'connaisseurs' in the field of cultured hobbies.

The program being over, Mrs. Wolff asked Mrs. Mulhern to pour and the members were invited into the dining room where the table was a vision of loveliness. On a hand embroidered tablecloth the antique silver service, so beautiful in design was the focal point of this exquisitely arranged table. The central decor, a crystal epergne, held specimen of red camellias contrasting with the silver candlesticks with their white candles. The hostess table was laden with delicious sandwiches, canapes, salted nuts, cakes and mints. This elaborate party was truly a gala affair.

Mrs. John Carroll was a guest of the club.

The members present were: Mrs. W. M. Greenwell, Mrs. Thomas Jett, Mrs. Neal McHenry, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. J. W. Murphy Mrs. A. B. Myatt, Mrs. A. L. Peters, Mrs. George Temple, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. R. L. Wood, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. D. M. Moore Sr. and the hostess, Mrs. Irving Wolff.

Miss Eleanor Mitchell Is Honored In Lake Providence

Bride-Elect Entertained At Miscellaneous Shower In Home Of Mayor And Mrs. J. L. Johnson

First in a series of lovely Lake Providence parties for Miss Eleanor Mitchell, charming bride-elect daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Mitchell of West Monroe, was the miscellaneous shower on Wednesday afternoon, from three to five at the home of Mayor and Mrs. J. L. Johnson on Brown street.

The hostesses, Mrs. Johnson and daughter, Mrs. Graham Schneider, with the honoree received the guests. Mrs. Johnson wore a maroon alpaca with matching lace yoke of medallions sprayed with rhinestones. Her corsage was of blue Dutch iris. Mrs. Schneider's deep squared neckline was framed with narrow shoulder straps on which was pinned a gardenia corsage with velvet leaves. The black bodice scalloped into the skirt with deep faille flounce. She added a choker of rhinestones and turquoise stones. Miss Mitchell's natural charm was enhanced by a coat dress of satin faille in alternating narrow stripes of pink and navy, with rolled collar to the bodice and flattering double peg pockets placed high on the bodice. From collar to hemline was a row of pearl buttons centered with rhinestone. The skirt's fulness was controlled in soft folds. Her corsage of pink carnations was worn at the beltline. Mrs. Mitchell, mother of the honoree, chose a navy sheer with deep bodice tucks. She added a necklace of pearls and shoulder corsage of talismen rosebuds.

Mixed spring flowers were used in profusion in the living room where the guests grouped for conversation and to welcome home these popular former residents of Lake Providence, and their guests Mrs. J. J. Turner, and Mrs. J. L. Hutchison, both of Monroe, and mother and grandmother, respectively of the groom - to - be, and Mrs. E. R. Williams, a close family friend, who shared in the honors of the afternoon.

The dining room carried out the Valentine theme with refreshment table overlaid with red cloth and lighted by tall slim white tapers in silver candlesticks. The individual cakes, in heart shape, were crested with red rose and green leaf. Mrs. Edward Davis Schneider of Twin Oaks, presiding at the heirloom coffee service wore a spring crepe suit in brown and white print, with deeper brown buttons. Her white straw was covered with a short brown veil.

An array of Haviland's Sylvia china, Russell Wright's Modern American California semi - porcelain breakfast ware, Chantilly silver, Fostoria's Holly stemware, and linens, cooking utensils, and pyrex bore testimony to the popularity of the honoree.

Reception Given In Vidalia Honors Mr. And Mrs. Walter McCrea

Ferriday, La., Feb. 16.—Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCrea of Vidalia celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at a reception at their home in Vidalia on Sunday afternoon between the hours of three and six o'clock.

A large gathering of friends and relatives from surrounding cities were present to extend their felicitations to the distinguished couple.

Masses of summer blooms decorated the interior of the home. Standing in the receiving line with the honored couple were their sons and daughters, Mrs. Laymon Cargile, Mrs. Julius Aronstein, Mrs. A. M. Beacham, Alomogordo, N. M., and Walter McCrea, Jr., of Monroe, La.

The sisters and brothers of Mr. McCrea were present. They were: James McCrea, Natchez, Miss., Mrs. F. A. Dolineck, Brooklyn, N. Y. and Truman McCrea of Monroe, La.

Mrs. McCrea chose for the occasion an afternoon frock of grey silk embossed with a printed pattern of pink. She was presented with a corsage of gold iris.

Refreshments were served in the dining room where the table was covered with an imported linen cloth of Chinese drawn work. Forming the centerpiece was a cake resembling a bridal register frosted with the wedding date in gold and decorated with gold leaves. The cake was banked with King Alfred jonquils and flanked with crystal candlebra holding gold lighted tapers.

Alternating at the silver coffee service were Mrs. Fred Falkenheiner and Mrs. W. C. Moses. Mrs. Clifford Reeves presided at the guest register, a handsomely bound book which was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. James McCrea of Natchez. Floating hostesses were Mrs. Frank Licata and Mrs. J. Lovelace Fairbanks.

Mrs. Byron Henry Is Hostess At February Meeting Of Drew Club

"Beauty through good nutrition" was explained to the members of the Drew Home Demonstration Club, by the agent, Mrs. Euna D. Spielman.

Each member was weighed and her height measured, then by chart each were told what they should weigh. She told the members that in most cases of overweight, it was caused by the habit of overeating. To reduce, she says, one must first have the desire to reduce, then cut down on the calories. Some of the "dont's" of reducing, she explained, are, don't take reducing pills, don't try to rub it off, don't leave off certain meals, don't lose over a pound or pound and a half a week.

She stated that it is wise to diet in a safe and sound way, overweight causes heart trouble, high-blood pressure, and can add complications to operations. The most common disease of underweights is T. B. This too is greatly reduced by proper diet.

Mrs. C. V. Wimberly gave information on materials and colors and pointed out that higher prices will increase the necessity of more home sewing. Mrs. R. O. Moss gave a brief report on Insect Control and that it will be discussed and a demonstration given at the March meeting.

Mrs. Byron Henry, hostess to the club, served refreshments to Mrs. P. M. Donald, Mrs. Albert Frost, Mrs. Rymond Agin, Mrs. C. V. Wimberly, Mrs. Mae Bourland, Mrs. Clara Gilliland, Mrs. G. A. Strozier, Mrs. R. O. Moss and three visitors, Mrs. Speilman, Mrs. Melton Davison and Mrs. C. F. Henry. Mrs. P. M. Donald will be hostess in March.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Each month several thousand books are released by the publishing firms of this country. Many of these are worthless from a library standpoint, many are mediocre but there are a few that are outstanding. Some of these are important, because of their content, others because of their timeliness, and others because of their appeal to the reading public. It is the function of the librarian to choose the books that will fit her reading public.

Every now and then a book comes along that is certain to be a best seller and will be in great demand from the library's public. Such a book is "My Cousin Rachel" by Daphne Du Maurier, which came out in book form this week. It has been running as a serial in the Ladies Home Journal and many people have read it there. However, many of us prefer to read our novels in book form instead of in serials, where they are always cut. "My Cousin Rachel" has for its setting the same lonely Cornish coast as did "Rebecca." It is the story of Rachel, a beautiful woman, who destroyed all with whom she came in contact. The question was, whether she was evil or unfortunate. It is also the story of two cousins who loved her. It is told in the first person, by the younger man Phillip. It is the kind of book that holds your interest from the first page to the end. It is not a long book, but it is an exceedingly interesting one. Don't miss "My Cousin Rachel."

Books of biography are always popular at the library. Several new ones have recently been added. One is "Eisenhower" by John Gunther. This is a most timely book, now that there is so much speculation about his running for president. Another is "Douglas MacArthur" by Clark Lee. This is the most complete biography of MacArthur which has yet appeared. Mr. Lee attempts to give a complete evaluation of MacArthur's character and career. "Woman at Work" by Mary Anderson is the life story of a woman who had an important part in securing good working hours for women.

Mothers are always interested in books which will help them to understand the behavior of their children. "The Rights of Infants" by Margaretha Ribble is an interesting new book which stresses the importance of infancy in a child's life. "Understanding Your Child" by James L. Hymes and "Our Children Today" by Sidonie Gruenberg are both books of great value to any parent and especially to young parents.

Radio contests enlist the energies of great numbers of people every week. If you are one of those, you will want to read "The Contest Story" by John R. Burnham. This book gives valuable advice to those who take part in contests.

Do you like to read about animals, hunting or fishing? If you do you will be interested in "Tales of Quails and Such" by Havilah Babcock, "Horses Are Folks" by C. W. Anderson, and "This Fascinating Animal World" by Alan Devoe.

Probably cookbooks are the most popular type of books in the library, outside of fiction. A new one just added to the collection is "The Low Calory Cookbook" by Bernard Koten. This book tells one how to prepare low calory meals, which are still appetizing. Are you looking for a nice gift for a bride? "The Bride's Encyclopedia" by Dorothy Sara is the answer to all problems. It tells the young bride how to go about every phase of housekeeping. It is available at the library if you would like to see it before buying.

Your public library is ready to serve your reading needs. If you are not using it, go to one of the four branches as soon as possible and register.

Mrs. F. E. Black And Mrs. George Phebus Entertain At February Meeting

On Wednesday the Welcome Branch Book Club was entertained in the home of Mrs. F. E. Black with Mrs. George Phebus, co-hostess.

Mrs. Fred Hornberger opened the meeting by leading the group in the salute to the flag, and giving the club collect.

A former member of the club, Mrs. Gaston Eikel, who has returned to Monroe, was welcomed to the meeting.

After a brief business session Mrs. A. C. Warner, program chairman, presented Mrs. J. N. Coon who spoke on lost peace in China. In her talk she discussed the book "The Embroidered City" by Lewis Gelfan, who has spent some time as a vice - consul in China. Knowledge and sympathy for China and her way of life make authoritative background for the story of an UNRA ship delivering flour to the famine bound city of Tai - lun. Stripped of its fictional trappings, the book gives the overall impression of the helplessness of large bodies of humble people, buffeted by external machinations that seem unending and beyond their control. It presents the helplessness of the Chinese against Communist aggression.

Mrs. Coon also reviewed Fred Utleyis book "China Story." She said "As an ex-Communist, she presents her opinion as a prosecuting attorney. She gives a blow by blow account of the acts of omission and commission which led straight down the path to the war in Korea. According to Mrs. Utley, the Chinese Communists believe the war between the west and Russia is inevitable so they will risk all their present gains and future hopes remaining neutral. If Russia wins, they would be liquidated, if they fight with Russia against us, most of them would probably escape with their lives, even if defeated. If they join our side they cannot hope to preserve their power for long, for it is unlikely that after a victorious war against Russia, the forces of freedom would permit the continued existence of a Communist dictatorship in China. The Communist leaders have everything to win by fighting with Russia and nothing to gain and much to lose by taking our side or remaining neutral. Miss Utley charges that not only have we appeased communism in China, but we have done this because Communists and Communistic thinking have captured the diplomats, the secretary of state, and the public — at least as the far east is concerned. She argues that the loss of a friendly China and the war in Korea have resulted from fundamental errors concerning the nature and aims of communism and that these errors still weaken our policy."

"Dr. Tingfu Tsiang says if the peoples of the world are free to express their opinion and decide their own destinies they would undoubtedly choose peace. It is only when they are deprived of their freedom and made to think and act as the dictators wish them to act that they appear to support an aggressive war. Let us remember that terror is preparation for war."

Members and guests attending were: Mrs. Clarence Long, Mrs. F. E. Black, Mrs. J. N. Coon, Mrs. R. H. Dollar, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. Sidney Douglas, Mrs. Gaston Eikel, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. W. H. Giles, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. J. G. Hicks, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. Leola Nixon, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. A. C. Polk, Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. A. J. Speer, Mrs. A. C. Warner, Mrs. W. B. Wheelis, Mrs. Henry Williams, Mrs. Cyril Yancey, Mrs. Fred Hornberger, Mrs. B. E. McWilliams, Mrs. J. T. Horton, and Mrs. Lawrence Bewick.

Two Girl Scout Troops Observe Recent Birthdays

Who doesn't love a birthday party? When it's a Scout troop's birthday that's all the more excuse for celebrating. Within the past two weeks we've heard of two Brownie troops observing their birthdays. First was troop 8, of which Mrs. Fred Riser, Mrs. W. R. Lindsey and Mrs. Earl Hicks are leaders. Of course, there was birthday cake with all the trimmings, and pendant's for the Brownie pins for girls who have completed a year's membership. Now, we hear, the Fly-Ups from this troop will form a new troop and the younger Brownies will remain in the old troop. That's one way that Scouting grows.

Troop 23 has just finished a year of Scouting under the leadership of Mrs. R. H. Hofler and Mrs. W. E. Moore. Families of all the girls joined the troop's observance, bringing a box supper to the recreation center. In a simple ceremony the girls received one - year pendants, six new girls were invested and all girls were presented with membership cards for another year of Scouting. All of these girls are Fly-Ups who are now beginning to work on Tenderfoot requirements for the intermediate program.

There is no doubt that for the majority of Scouts the most popular field of interest is the out of doors. Smart troops start during bad weather to prepare for the times when they can get out. After waiting for several weeks for a break in the weather on Saturdays, Troop 35 finally had its backyard cookout in the yard of one of their leaders, Mrs. J. C. Dickerson. Divided into patrols, the girls laid and followed nature trails. They cooked a chowder for the main dish and cherry cobbler for dessert. Now that may not sound unusual, but have you ever eaten cobbler cooked on a reflector oven in front of an opn fire? And after you have made the oven yourself out of cookie tins, shiny and new? The girls could see the dough rise and brown and they smelled the most delicious smells —a lot more fun than cooking on a gas stove. No trick at all; just ask any member of troop 35 to show you how it's done!

Don't know how the tree planting worked out yesterday. We heard some interesting plans beforehand, though. Some troops planned to combine a hike and by cooking some part of their meal, such as hot chocolate to go with sandwiches brought from home. Some groups were planning to go out for only an hour or so in the afternoon or morning.

There must have been a lot of hunting for small trees to transplant this week end. Incidentally, if any one has a small tree that she wants to get rid of, just call the Scout office and somebody will come for it. Some troops are waiting until next Saturday to do their planting, anyway.

Troop 40 proved ingenious in getting their tree. They collected waste paper in their neighborhood, sold it, and bought a tree for camp with the money. Don't know yet, what kind they bought — hope it's a holly or a magnolia.

There's some mighty good program going on in troops. We'll let you in on more next Sunday.

RICHARD ELLSASSER IS PRESENTED IN ORGAN CONCERT AT COLLEGE

By Florence Z. Allbritton

Richard Ellsasser, known as the Paganinni of the concert organ, would doubtless have received a reverent bow from Paganinni himself if that nineteenth century wizard of the violin had dropped in on the Ellsasser concert in Monroe Tuesday evening. This amazing young genius, at the console of a Hammond concert organ, played to a spellbound audience in Brown Hall auditorium at Northeast Louisiana State College. He was rewarded with applause that matched in volume the expansive crests of his organ crescendi.

After brief enlightening commentary he opened his program with four early works for the organ. Italian, French, Bohemian, English — each seemed to be exactly what Mr. Ellsasser should be playing, and each seemed to surpass the other in consummate effectiveness. Included in the first group were the spirited Vivaldi "Concerto in A Minor," J. F. Dandrieu's delicate "Fifer," Karl Stamitz's placidly beautiful "Andante," and the sprightly "Rondo in G" by John Bull.

From his entire memorized repertoire of Bach's 236 organ works, Mr. Ellsasser performed with apparently hallowed intent the magnificent "Bach Fantasy" and "Fuge in G Minor." Indescribably effectual was his translation of these impressive masses of tone and polyphony. To Mr. Ellsasser the organ works of this greatest master of all time in organ composition, embrace a philosophy all their own, a philosophy stemming from the lofty spiritual nature of Bach himself. There is enormous gratification in hearing so faithful and devoted an exponent of Bach re-create a work of this proportion. For here is a performer who never allows his innate flair for showmanship to interfere with the music itself.

In two fanciful modern works, Clokey's "The Kettle Boils" and Gordon Nevin's "Will 'o the Wisp," Mr. Elisasser evoked unbelievable sounds from the instrument. Karg-Elert's "Soul of the Lake" was performed gracefully, exquisitely, and was declared almost a favorite in the group. However, the organist's own work "Concert Study in D minor," was still to be reckoned with. In marked contrast to the other compositions, the study revealed in virtuosity in writing as well as in playing, and it certainly demands a virtuoso for its adequate delivery. It is one of Mr. Elisasser's numerous compositions, many of which are published. With its four thousand pedal notes there must be at least forty thousand on the manuals. But altogether they are no more difficult for this endowed young man than is the Sunday morning Doxology for a well-trained church organist.

An air of anticipation swept through the auditorium as Miss Jane Evans, member of the sponsoring organization (student chapter of Music Educator's National Conference at N. L. S. C.) approached the stage to hand Mr. Ellsasser a theme previously requested by him for improvisation. The original theme, graciously submitted by Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn had been sealed in an envelope and seen by no one except her. It was opened by Mr. Ellsasser after he seated himself at the organ. Unadorned, written in excellent taste for the occasion, the theme was characterized by a rhythmical and tonal persistence which lent it distinctiveness. This ingenious organist exploited it to the maximum through the processes of transportation, modulation, ornamentation, augmentation, diminution, canon, fugue, and ways too numerous to mention. There was mounting amazement as he explored the possibilities for six to seven minutes, and a sense of assurance that he could continue for hours with ever-fresh devices. The program closed with the improvisation. Encores included the performer's appealing setting of "Londonderry Air" and the "Toccata" from Widor's Fifth Symphony.

It seemed no wonder after the concert that one refined but zealous gentleman took his stand as if "on a soapbox" near the front steps of the auditorium to call out enthusiastically that one day we shall read accounts declaring this organist to be one of the greatest of all generations. "And to think we heard him in this auditorium tonight." An exuberant lad bounded past, skipped to the left and right as if in reminiscence of what he had just heard inside. Then he paused to call out in awed tones, "Lady, you've never seen such feet in your life — or hands." He was correct. I hadn't. This was the incomparable Ellsasser's first visit to Louisiana.

Draft Board Decisions Subject To Appeals

Of a total of 219,047 Louisiana registrants who have been classified, 427 such registrants have appealed their classifications the past two years, Brig. Gen. Raymond F. Hufft revealed today.

In 317 of the cases forwarded to a Louisiana selective service system appeal board during that period the decision of the local board was sustained. In 84 cases the appeal board reversed the local board decision. Of the appeal cases 24 went forward to the national appeal board, which is authorized when there is a dissenting vote at the state appeal board level.

General Hufft said any registrant, any dependent of a registrant, any person who filed a written request for the current occupational deferment of a registrant prior to his classification, or a government appeal agent, may appeal from any classification of a registrant by a local draft board.

However, no appeal can be taken from a physical or mental finding. Selective service must accept the decision of the armed forces examining stations as to the physical and mental condition of each registrant examined, Hufft added.

World Day Of Prayer Will Be Observed

Twin City Council Of Church Women Plan Services On First Friday Of Lent

World Day of Prayer, observed each year on the first Friday of Lent, will fall on February 29th and will be observed locally, the Twin City Council of Church Women announced today through its world mission committee composed of Mrs. Lonnie Clark, Mrs. John Noel, Mrs. Wharton Brown, Mrs. H. F. Boyd, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. E. C. Gibson and Mrs. Charles Chisholm. This group, together with Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, council president, has been making careful plans for the several services which will be held in the Twin Cities.

The theme of the 1952 program, in which will be joined 17,000 communities in the United States and thousands elsewhere in 104 countries around the globe, is "Christ, Our Hope." Its purpose is to further unite Christians everywhere in prayer and in the United States to make an offering to support interdenominational missions at home and abroad.

Twin City services for adults are scheduled at the Gordon Avenue Methodist Church at 3 p. m., at the Episcopal Church at 7:30 p.m. and at the Y. W. C. A. The board of missions of the First Methodist Church of Monroe will conduct the prayer service at nine homes for the aged at varying hours during the day on Friday, February 29th. Services for colored Christians will be the responsibility of Lucille Howard and Rev. J. C. Anderson and will be held at Martin Temple Baptist Church and St. James Methodist Churches.

Children's services to be held in scattered areas throughout the Twin Cities are being arranged by Mrs. Charles Chisholm, who will announce complete plans at a later date.

The program is planned by an interdenominational, international, interracial committee of the general department of United Church Women of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. Each year women of a certain country are asked to choose a theme and draft the program. This year's program comes from the migrants, sharecroppers and Indians in the U. S. and those who live close to the earth in other lands. From dawn on the Fiji Islands to dusk on the Arctic St. Lawrence, women of many countries will unite in the same service of praise, penitence and dedication, as hymns and prayers ascend to the Father of All.

To the millions of God's children who turn to Him in intercession the call goes out for spiritual fellowship across and through all barriers. The day highlights the year-round bond among all Christians — a bond which naught can sever. Because prayer is power, it interprets God's plan for all, even as it builds understanding and mutual concern for one another and binds together God's peoples of the world."

A cordial and earnest invitation is extended to men, women and children of the Twin Cities to attend one of the services.

MRS. W. D. WOMACK HOSTESS AT BONHOMIE BOOK CLUB MEETING

The Bonhomie Book Club met recently in the home of Mrs. W. D. Womack with the president, Mrs. Hal Laymon, presiding. Mrs. Laymon welcomed the two guests, Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. William Horward, and lead the club collect.

Following the roll call and the reading of the minutes, various chairmen gave their reports. A revision of the Constitution was read by Mrs. George P. Forman and will be voted on at the next meeting.

After the business meeting the program was turned over to Mrs. H. V. Collins who presented "Vienna-Outpact of the West" by Mrs. Fredia Biggs, the international relations chairman, G. F. W. C. She said in part: "Six of us left Paris November 23rd for Vienna. The week end was planned by the American embassy. I remained and spent ten of the most profitable and challenging days of my life in Vienna. Invitations were sent our via empress post cards, the president of three clubs had coffee with me at the Hotel Ambassador Krantz. These clubs were members of the Austrian National Council of Women having been chosen to federate with us so that the council would have contact with the G. F. W. C. The president of the council, Fran Heiniseh was a candidate for the president of Administration Women founded in 1908. With present membership of 1,000 women all are employed by the government. Through the years they have worked for and achieved equal pay for equal work for women. Clothing is uppermost in everyone's mind, food first, but after they buy what is needed there is nothing left for clothes. And they are badly in need of women's clothes. Austria is really on the front line, they are 95 per cent on our side. The things they need are available but beyond their reach.

The policy of the U. S. has been and is to normalize our relations with Austria as soon as possible. We want to withdraw our occupation forces, but we cannot until the last Soviet soldier leaves. Considering the picture we realize the importance of the Marshall plan. aid to Austria. The answer over there is "Without the Marshall plan there would be no Austria." Or there would be no hope. The U. S. is the only occupying power which pays its own occupation cost."

After the above program Mrs. H. V. Collins versed the club on being a parliamentarian by Mrs. W. Glenn Suthers, parliamentarian for G. F. W. C.

The hostess served delicious refreshments to the guests and the following members: Mrs. Warren Breard, Mrs. O. C. Lanier, Mrs. A. J. McCready, Mrs. R. B. Pilaut, Mrs. Robert Irby, Mrs. H. M. Rhodes, Mrs. George P. Forman, Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. W. D. McGee, Mrs. Roland Waldroup, Mrs. James Taylor, Mrs. Hal Laymon and the hostess, Mrs. W. D. Womack.

Magnolia Study Club Elects Officers At Meet

Annual Business Meeting Held In Home Of Mrs. A. T. White

Magnolia Study Club held its annual business meeting recently with Mrs. A. T. White and Mrs. J. E. Nelson hostesses. Mrs. C. C. Lucky, president, opened the meeting with the pledge of allegiance to the flag. The club members joined in singing "Star Spangled Banner" and followed with the club collect repeated in unison. Since February 2-8 was National Drama week the roll call was answered by giving a quotation from drama. The departmental chairmen's reports were announced excellent for the year 1951 - 52. It was also announced that Mrs. E. N. Hochenedel had given blood to the Bloodmobile with two other members to give at a later date.

Mrs. Tom Leos, chairman of the nominating committee reported that the following officers were nominated and elected for the coming year: Mrs. Fred Tucker president; Mrs. Ed Hislop, Jr., vice - president; Mrs. L. N. Copes, secretary; Mrs. J. E. Nelson, treasurer; Mrs. Milton Ford, reporter, Mrs. Tom Leos, historian; Mrs. C. C. Lucky, parliamentarian; Mrs. W. O. Ferguson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. A. T. White, program chairman.

Mrs. J. E. Nelson gave an interesting and valuable resume of the Federal Civil Defense administration. She said in part: "A possible enemy has the weapon now with which to attack us. We know Russia has the atomic bomb and is working more all the time. The fifth columnists could strike us with disease, bombs, and poison gas at home. Or, saboteurs may start work anytime. Our FBI and armed forces cannot defend us perfectly. No defense is perfect. Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, chief of staff of the U. S. air force has stated that at most we could knock down only 30 out of each 100 enemy planes attacking the United States. Even though our air force and FBI are highly efficient we may be sure that in case of war, a good percentage of enemy attacks would be successful in spite of all we can do. That is why we must have civil defense. The Red Cross is a part of civil defense. Millions of Americans must be trained for civil defense before our country is ready for enemy attack. Civil defense adds up to just one thing, find out where you can best serve, then volunteer for the job.

Magnolia Study Club has members who work for Gray Ladies, First Aid, and Y. W. C. A. so we must organize in civil defense."

All members present wrote a card to the congressman endorsing Bill No. S-50 Alaska statehood bill.

Members present were Mrs. Aline Banister, Mrs. R. N. Dozier, Mrs. L. N. Copes, Mrs. Milton Ford, Mrs. H. O. Hartman, Mrs. Ed Hislop, Jr., Mrs. J. T. Horton, Mrs. Tom Leos, Mrs. C. C. Lucky, Mrs. J. E. Nelson, Mrs. F. V. Reitzell, Mrs. Joe F. Smith, Mrs. Fred Tucker, Mrs. Ed Hochenedel, and Mrs. R. L. Fuller.

Exempt Sorghum From Price Control

Sorghum syrup today was exempted from price control at producer levels by the office of price stabilization.

OPS explained that more than 95 per cent of the annual production has been free from control at the producer level because it is produced by farmers and is selling below parity.

The agency said it is clear that the exemption will have but a trifling effect on the cost of living or upon business costs.

Sorghum syrup, which is popular in the south, is produced by grinding sorghum cane.

Handsomely appointed in china and silver the three course luncheon embraced tomato cocktail, chicken loaf, cheese balls, heart-shaped salads, cranberry aspics; southern rolls, orange muffins and a delicious merengue filled with cream and strawberries. Coffee was served from the silver service. The menu was chosen from favorites that the Bennetts especially enjoy in this household.

Miss Pat Sanders Speaks To Monroe Literary Club

Members Meet In Home Of Mrs. J. E. Baugh For February Event

The M oe Literary Club met in the home of Mrs. J. E. Baugh, ith Mrs. W. D. Kleppinger, co-hostess. Mrs. W. T. El" esided over the business meeting. Each member answ roll call by naming an Allied vice which has aided the reconstruction of post war Germany. Mrs. D. A. Altick, program chairman, introduced Miss Pat Sanders, student in N. E. L. S. C. who was one of twenty young people privileged to make an extended trip through Europe on behalf of the Jr. Red Cross. She made a highly interesting talk telling of experiences when she visited Italy, Switzerland, France, Germany, Denmark, Sweden and Finland. The twenty students who are members of the American Junior Red Cross, received invitations to visit Europe from eleven Red Cross societies as a token of appreciation for the school and health supplies sent to European children by American children and this included 2,000,000 gift boxes since the end of the war.

The American group sailed from New York on July 10, 1949. Passed a week in Geneva, and then split into three or four of the following countries, Italy, Austria, France, Belgium, Luxemburg, the Netherlands, England, Sweden, Norway, and Finland.

The twenty high school students from nineteen states contended, in effect, that the only difference between a girl from Laconia, N. H. and a girl from Copenhagen, Denmark, was to be found in the fact that one lived on this side of the Atlantic Ocean and the other lived on that side. In each country she secured a close - up of the life of these countries and the conditions that now exist in these post - war days. She declared that she felt that it was not just she who was making the trip but that instead, she was the representative of a million members back home of the Junior Red Cross and what she saw and did had a great bearing on the lives of all the others. Wherever she went she spread the merits of the democratic way of life to people who, in many countries, are suffering from oppression. Before sailing for Italy, Miss Sanders told of a week spent in Washington where she saw and heard much about the great work of the Red Cross. The visit in New York prior to leaving for overseas also was of deep interest for it was the first time Pat had been thus privileged.

The hostesses served delicious party confections carrying out the Valentine theme to the following members and guests: Mrs. W. T. Ellis, Mrs. J. H. Drake, Mrs. J. S. Worley, Mrs. J. D. Kelley, Mrs. Guy DuPriest, Mrs. W. L. Howard, Mrs. J. E. Shannon, Mrs. A. B. Colmer, Mrs. F. L. Ferrell, Mrs. D. A. Altick, Mrs. J. W. Womack, Mrs. J. E. Baugh, and guests, Mrs. Walter Knapp, Miss Pat Sanders and Mrs. Hardy Whitehead.

MATERNAL CLINIC IS 15 YEARS OLD

Observes Anniversary And Calls To Attention Its Achievements

Another milestone has been reached in community service, a service to community and individual life, when on February 2, 1952 the Monroe Maternal And Infant Welfare Clinic, an agency of the Twin City Community Chest, observed its 15 years of civic activity attentive to the less financially favored families in the Twin City and environ. Designed and organized for the specific purpose of combating maternal mortality, at that time so high in the parish that homes were being broken with the inherent eventuality of the children being thrown upon the mercy of a sympathetic public and become its charge. At that time there was no institution or program of social welfare to alleviate the need in this line of endeavor.

It was found that in many cases the mother, financially unable to secure medical attention for herself, was wholly dependent upon the kindness of local physicians to come to her in her great hour of need. Thus, a very high maternal mortality was resultant of he neglected essentially important perinatal care.

The glaring fact of appalling maternal mortality with its bi-products of need was with us; its immediate cause was established—insufficient medical attention—and that problem, lack of family finances. This all added up to a challenge for a badly needed program for a community social welfare service.

Beginning in a small financial way, back in 1937, the clinic-sponsor, the local court of the Catholic Daughters of America, whose work patterned as that of benevolence, accepted this challenge. Together with two young local physicians and the Sisters of St. Francis, who furnished quarters in the rear grounds of the hospital, established and maintained the Monroe Maternal and Infant Welfare Clinic for a period of nearly two years. From the very beginning so great was the need and call for such an institution, that it soon became apparent that expansion as to quarters and finances for future operation was necessary. The caseload was running into the hundreds; the need and call for other social welfare such as medicines, food, and clothing for the well being of mother and infant became a daily business of those in charge of the work. At the organization of the Twin City Community Chest in November, 1938, the Monroe Maternal & Infant Welfare Clinic was readily recognized as an outstanding community project, was invited and became an affiliate member agency of the newly organized Chest. And as such, derives dedicated funds for the social service needs of clinic mothers who are certified as being within the lower income group of our citizenry.

The clinics are held each Tuesday and Wednesday beginning at noon at the Health Center, St. John at Grammont and is opened to any expectant mother, regardless of race or creed. Here medical observation and nursing service and an educational program in hygiene is furnished free by the local health department. The St. Francis Sisters offer to clinic mothers, who so desire such, a complete hospitalized maternal and infant service, thus rounding out the program for the best in obstetrical care for the "least of these" who share our community life.

The Monroe Maternal & Infant Welfare Clinic is justly proud of the record for good accomplished during its 15 years of existence. With 3467 mothers recorded as having applied for and received some phase of care, but two losses are registered. Its objective has been attained. Saving the mother for her family has notably improved the tragic status of family life as recorded 15 years ago.

The clinic sponsor is cognizant of the fact and grateful to the three equally vital cooperating factors which have made its success so outstanding. The local unit of the health department, where housing, medical observation, laboratory and nursing service is furnished; to the St. Francis Sisters for their generosity of a hospitalized delivery and infant care, and to the Twin City Community Chest through its Red Feather service for allocation of funds for the direction of the clinic work and the welfare need and emergencies incumbent upon the program for the social well being of our less favored citizenry.

Law Grads Can Take Bar Examination Tests

A selective service registrant who graduates from law school will be permitted to take the next bar examination before being inducted into the armed forces, Brig. Gen. Raymond F. Hufft announced today.

Such registrants will have the opportunity to be admitted to the bar so they may practice law upon return from military service.

General Hufft said this postponement action will not be considered cause for reopening the classification of such a registrant, or for changing his classification from that of a man available for service.

SPRING HATS BLOOM AT PALACE

Spring Hats Are Now On Display At Palace Millinery

This is the big year for women because it's Leap Year, and every designer of clothes and hats is well aware that you have to look well before you leap. The Princess line, the soft tailoring, all harmonize with dainty little hats to make a beguiling charmer of every 1952 belle. The Leap Year hats are provocative and deliberately feminine — even the colors have emphatic allure.

Miss Zetta Byrne, manager of The Palace Millinery Salon, says, "Every spring there are sailor hats a-plenty, but this spring they emerge as the number one fashion because of the Gibson - girl influence in coats, suits and dresses. Most of them are shallow-crowned, or flat as discs, and held to the head with an ingenious clamp or two. This is the year your hat will hold on to you."

She further added that all the sailors are not "suitors." Although a great many are designed for wear with suits, there are small flower sailors for the cocktail hour and enormous skimmers as dramatic as a second act curtain. These large sailors are most arresting in stark white or lustrous black. Most sailors are worn level and straight on, but for high fashion, can be worn at an angle. Backs are short or cut away to reveal upswept curls, and much of the trimming is concentrated at the back.

"The "Rocker" or directoire silhouette is the next in importance, stated Miss Byrne. These shallow little hats ride the waves without disturbing a hair, and that's reason enough for their success. From small shells or half hats, to backless bonnets, they all show a great deal of hair and are enormously flattering. And, they are wide and easy to wear.

Pill boxes are always a perennial favorite, whether starkly tailored or bedecked with pretty flowers, layers of veiling or chiffon, says Miss Byrne, for they're smart pretty, and easy to wear.

As for color, adds Miss Byrne, navy, black, brown and beige tones lead the color parade, although reds, lilac and mauve tones hold the promise of a part in the parade along with light grey and natural. And natural is a leading straw color, naturally!

Trimming is back this year, too, and not just in back, either. Velvet ribbons, velvet cuffs and bands, straw flowers, taffeta ribbons, flowers and veils — the latter often an intregal part of many hats, such as a veil that becomes a visor, or the chou of veiling that balances on the back of the "rocker" hat.

Summing it all up, Miss Byrne says, "The hat and the hair are together again in a frankly flattering effect. What more could a woman ask of this eventufl year"!

DOG TRAINER BITES

Singapore —(AP)— A British Tommy, whose mission in life is to train dogs for the army, was convicted himself recently of biting a corporal.

The soldier, a member of the Army Guard Dog Unit in Singapore was sentenced to 84 days detention for assault, absence without leave and creating a disturbance.

His court martial was told that when he returned late one night from leave, he objected to questioning from a corporal and a struggle ensued. During it, came the bite.

WINNSBORO'S BIG CREEK RUNS OVER

Engineers To Shorten Stream To Prevent Flooding Of Farm Land

Winnsboro, La., Feb. 15.—(Special)—The twisted, choked and overburdened Big Creek channel, separating Franklin and Richland parishes and draining a large portion of the north Louisiana delta country, will undergo a shortening operation by the U. S. corps of engineers.

According to J. C. Buie, vice-president of the Tensas Levee board and resident of Franklin parish, three cut-offs between Mile 6.7 and Mile 8.2, about midway between the mouth of the creek at Mile 26 on Boeuf river and Highway 15, will shorten the channel approximately 4,100 feet in a distance of 8 200 feet.

Mr. Buie said that previous shortening and dredging above the mouth of the creek, plus many new drainage canals emptying into the overburdened stream, had caused excessive flooding of rich farm lands between Highway 15 and the mouth of the creek in Richland and Franklin.

Capt. W. W. Pearce, acting district engineer of the Vicksburg district, informed officials of the Tensas Levee district that a "proposal to construct the three cut-offs had been made" and gave authority to purchase rights-of-way from adjoining landowners.

The Levee board vice-president said that no promise has been made at this time concerning a recently proposed operation on the mouth of the stream as proposed by him during a conference with U. S. engineers.

The argument presented last fall by Mr. Buie at the conference with General Feringa and other army engineers was: "A ditch is only as good as its mouth," pointing out that the Big Creek mouth is nearly closed, while drainage in this section has always been done above the choked mouth of the stream.

Elaborating further Mr. Buie said: "Big Creek bottlenecks — loops in the course of the stream below highway 15, depositing silt, trash, etc. — in the vicinity of Mangham southward to the mouth at Mile 26, preventing a sufficiently rapid run - off of the faster-moving and additional flow coming down from the upper dredged and improved upper areas. This floods farms and rich grazing lands along the stream in Franklin and Richland never flooded prior to completion of these up-river drainage projects."

The levee board leader explained, however, that he believed the proposed cut-offs would be of material aid and that the mouth would, eventually, be treated. "We will continue to work for such treatment," he added.

The proposed cut-offs are opposite the G. N. Russell, J. M. Parks and W. R. Sasser farms in sections 23 and 38 of the Liddieville community in Franklin parish.

LaZarre St. To Have Branch Sunday School

The First Baptist Church of West Monroe has announced the organization of a Branch Sunday School on Lazarre street in the Riverbend area of West Monroe. Until the school has been firmly established, meetings each Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock will be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Conder, 608 Lazarre.

Enrollment will begin Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and classes will be provided for each age group. Parents in this section are urged to bring their youngsters and remain for the classes. As the school grows provision will be made to care for all who desire to attend. A census revealed that more than 200 persons in this section of West Monroe are not enrolled in any Sunday School.

Melvin A. Bradley, minister of education, is acting as superintendent of this new school and will serve until the organization is complete. Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Rev. Jaroy Weber, will be present each afternoon.

A HAPPY NOTE OR TWO

by J. Paul Hewitt

"What the child knows about music is relatively unimportant as compared with how he feels toward music." This, according to Herman J. Rosenthal in Etude. Some parents seem to feel that technique . . . the playing of scales . . . the execution of the music is the most important. But most modern music educators believe that it's important first to found a firm philosophy toward music . . . to give the child belief and a feeling of creativity when he plays.

It's comparitively simple to learn the techniques . . . to play by rote the notes which are set down. But when the child has a feeling for a piece . . . gives it his own special interpretation . . . gives it something from inside himself . . . you can be sure he's well on the way to musical achievement.

Depend on the music teacher you've chosen to introduce technique at the proper time. And be sure to give the instructor your full cooperation so that your youngster will bet a consistent guidance in his musical endeavor.

The Instrumental Music Review, sponsored by the Department of Music of Northeast Louisiana State College, will be held February 21, 22, and 23. A large and representative attendance is expected from Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Don't miss the next Civic Music attraction — "SLAVENSKA BALLET," February 23.

We can furnish you with everything for your musical pleasure . . . the finest instruments, pianos, sheet music and radios . . . anything. Drop in and browse around. There are friendly folks to help you at HEWITT, INC., 216 Grammont. Phone: 2-1491.

Hal Boyle's Notebook

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 16.—(AP)—This climate is very good for hermits.

My favorite hermit, old Silas Dent, is still thriving at 71, convinced that a man can find happiness alone.

Old Silas is Florida's senior hermit. He lives on a small island 12 miles southwest of here, and is known as "The Hermit of Cabbage Key."

Silas who has a bushy beard and rather looks like Santa Claus gone to seed, gets along very well on a $65 a month state pension and the pin money he picks up selling hand-made fly swatters to tourists.

About once a month old Silas boats over to the nearby village of Pass-A-Grille to laugh at the tourists, then returns to his island paradise and his favorite pastime —reading the Bible.

Dent has lived there in a palm thatch hut in a cluster of pine trees for 40 years. He doesn't drink or smoke and has a quietly cheerful outlook on life. I love him because of a remark he made to me when I visited him years ago.

"I ain't felt blue since 1912," he said, "and I forget now what worried me then."

You have to admire a man like that. He never lets time weigh heavily on him.

"If I get to feeling restless," he said, "I just take one of the hairs from my beard between my fingers and try to split it. Sometimes I can split it clear up to my chin."

As he has a heavy beard, this keeps him pretty busy.

Some time ago a niece of old Silas became worried about him and talked him into coming to live with her family on the mainland. The very first evening, rather against his will, she prepared him a hot bath.

Old Silas stepped reluctantly into the shining tub — and promptly fell and broke five ribs. As soon as he receovered he insisted on returning to his island hut, where he announced:

"Civilization is too dangerous."

Only three other people live on the island — Claude McCall, a shrimp fisherman, his wife, and their two-year-old son, Terry. Mrs. McCall keeps a watchful eye on the elderly hermit's health.

He enjoys her solicitude very much, as he is an old hypochondriac at heart. Each equinox he is sure he will die, but the prospect of death doesn't dismay him in the least.

"I have made my peace with the Lord," he tells visitors, "and I am just sitting here waiting for him to take me in his own good time."

Old Silas has been such a success at hermiting he is inspiring others to follow his example.

The latest are two lady hermits —Mrs. Barbara Simmons and Esther Shelton. They live all alone on a one - acre mangrove patch near Cabbage Key which they call "God's Island." They spend their time painting and writing. When the waves lap over their island during storms, they go to a village hotel on the mainland.

"They seem very happy out here," said Wilson Hubbard, a rugged young fishing guide who rowed me out to their retreat. Hubbard flew to many strange parts of the world as a transport pilot for Uncle Sam. He has a grateful feeling toward the last world war because, as he said, "It taught me that everything I really wanted out of life was right back here at home."

Unfortunately, I didn't get to see the two lady hermits. A note on their door said they had gone to town for a few days to visit friends They don't mind civilization as much as old Silas does.

I looked through a window of their friendly, weathered fishing shack. Everthing was neat and in its place. From a wall hung a small hand-lettered sign that said: "It is nice living alone with God."

Bob Thomas IN MOVIELAND

Hollywood, Feb. 16. —(AP)— For the first time since his movie career began, Dana Andrews is a free man.

The handsome leading man bought his way out of his contract with Samuel Goldwyn, who shared Andrews' talents with 20th-Fox. "I had to pay him $100,000," said the actor, "but it was worth it."

His current film "Assignment—Paris," is his last under the old Goldwyn deal. Andrews wanted to escape the contract so he would be able to latch onto an attractive set-up with Director Mark Robson. The latter plans to sail to the South Seas to film one of the stories from "Return to Paradise," the best - seller by James Michener, author of "Tales of the South Pacific." Robson wants Andrews for the leading role.

The actor is also happy these days over the news that he has sold his yacht, which turned out to be bigger than he could afford. He found a buyer who would pay $1,000 more than it cost Andrews.

The academy nominations, announced this week, contained no major surprises. It shapes up as a hot race, and the prediction-makers are going to have a rough season. I am polishing up my crystal ball to a gleaming finish.

Observation: The awards for writers are handled in a stupid manner. There are three categories — best motion picture story, best screen play and best story and screen play. It takes a Philadelphia lawyer to determine what these categories mean.

Screen writers have long screamed about the need for making their jobs seem more important in the Hollywood pattern. Everyone agrees that writing is the "make - or - break" factor in a movies' success. But these diverse academy awards for writing confuse the public and lessen the impact of the honor.

A top writer told me his craft realizes this. But when writers are nominated for awards, their salaries usually rise. The more nominations, the more money for writers. . .

Larry Parks is coming out in the public eye again, after remaining in hiding since he testified in Washington he had been a Communist. This week he made an anti-Commie speech before an American Legion meeting in Monrovia. He also showed up at the Photoplay dinner with his wife Betty Garrett.

His only unreleased film, "Love Is Better Than Ever," will be shown soon. . .

At 70, Cecil B. DeMille is finally reaping the awards. He was given a special Oscar last year, won a Photoplay award and will be honored by the Hollywood foreign correspondents next week.

The oldtimer had long been overlooked by the academy and others who dealt out awards for "artistic merit." Now the award-givers realize that corn can't be ignored, particularly such a popular variety as DeMille's. . .

Quote from Dan Dailey: "So many of my friends are going to psychiatrists these days that the doctors must be doing a tremendous business. That's the story these days — the rich go to analysts, the poor go to church."

A TESTIMONIAL TO PUBLIC SERVICE

Ridge Avenue Baptist Church

A. T. MITCHELL, PASTOR
PHONE 5541

West Monroe, Louisiana

February 12, 1952

Mr. Tom Hicks
West Monroe, La.

Dear Mr. Hicks:

Rev. E. L. Tanner, for twenty years pastor of the Assembly of God Church, Cypress Street, in the Citizen last week gave the reasons why he was supporting you as one of the three candidates for Police Juror of Ward Five.

He said in the public statement "For your unselfish service you have rendered to the people of our community".

Mr. Hicks, I am supporting you for the same reason. You have opened up more new streets, hard surfaced more and have done more for the community than I thought could be done in the time and with the money you had to do it with. You have also supported every move to make our community a better place to live in a moral, social and educational way.

I know that you could not fix all the streets at the same time but that you will get to the others in the near future. I have been very anxious about two streets not yet fixed, but that is not going to keep me from supporting you, for I know you have to have time.

We have several other fine men in the second primary for this office and since we can vote for three I shall do my best to vote for two others that will help carry on the fine work of our Ward and Ouachita Parish.

Ozzie And Harriet And Their Two Children Starred In Film

One of the most delightful domestic comedies to come out of Hollywood in many a moon, Universal-International's "Here Come the Nelsons," starring Ozzie and Harriet Nelson of radio renown and their two young sons, at the Tem Theatre, opening Wednesday.

The appearance of the four Nelsons, ably supported by Rock Hudson, Barbara Lawrence, Sheldon Leonard and Jim Backus and other popular screen favorites marks the first time in a dozen years that an entire family of players have been seen in one movie. The Nelson boys, David, 14 years old and Ricky, 11, make their screen bows in "Here Come the Nelsons" and behave like veterans.

Actually, six Nelsons had something to do with the production, Ozzie's brother, Don, having helped with the screenplay and actor Frank Nelson having appeared in an important supporting role.

Filled with human touches under the guidance of Producer Aaron Rosenberg and Director Frederick de Cordova, the story begins in the Nelson home in the most true-to - life manner imaginable, with the Nelsons, their progeny and neighboring youngsters behaving for all the world like the folks down the block. Then it proceeds to build to one of the most hilarious climaxes seen on the screen in recent years.

When Ozzie Nelson saves his advertising job and brings Miss Lawrence and Rock Hudson to their fadeout clinch by stringing dozens of ladies' elastic foundation garments across a highway and halting a speeding automobile driven by the villians, audiences shriek as audiences haven't since the old Marx Brothers days.

Radio followers of Ozzie and Harriet Nelson will highly approve of their antics before the film cameras and it is safe to assume that the popular airway comedy family will gain new followers with the release of "Here Come the Nelsons."

Gray Ladies To Visit Aged Home

The volunteer Gray Ladies who visit the Collins Street home for the aged here report that everything has been going well at their home and that the guests are enjoying the activities more and more each week.

The most popular of the weekly events is the community singing with one of the Gray Ladies at the piano. Other activities include the monthly birthday party and weekly cake and coffee get-to-gethers.

In addition the regular letter writing and just plain talk have been taking place.

VOLUNTEERS LEARN RADAR DETECTION

Penang, Malaya —(AP)— A mobile radar detection unit has been installed here for training the Penang squadron of the Malayan auxiliary air force. Volunteers are being taught radar maintenance and fighter control duties.

Dogs were used for military purposes by all the major nations involved in World War II.

COMING TO TEM FRIDAY

James Mason has a mysterious reason for not wanting Ava Gardner to fall in love with him in "Pandora and the Flying Dutchman," M-G-M's absorbing Technicolor romance, showing at the Tem, starting Friday. Filmed in Spain, the new offering was dritten, directed and co-produced by Albert Lewin.

James Mason, Ava Gardner Co-Starred In Fascinating, Unusual MGM Drama

'Pandora And The Flying Dutchman' Coming To Tem Friday

There will be absorbing entertainment at the Tem Friday in M-G-M's "Pandora and the Flying Dutchman," co - starring James Mason and Ava Gardner in the fascinating story of a beautiful American girl who, while living in Spain, falls in love with a mysterious Dutch painter and finds her fate inexorably held in his hands.

Filmed on location in magnificent Technicolor, against the picturesque, mountain - fringed Costa Brava of northeastern Spain the story's action engenders excitement in a series of cumulative episodes, among them a thrilling race - car trial speed run at 250 miles per hour, ending with the car enveloped in flames; and breathtaking sequences in the bullring, climaxed when a matador involved in the heroine's life is gored to death.

But while there is action, excitement and suspense in almost every reel of "Padora and the Flying Dutchman," the story is primarily a modern juxtaposition of the famous legend of the 16th Century Dutch sea captain who murdered the wife he thought unfaithful and was condemned to roam the seas eternally, or until he could find a woman willing to give her life for him. The counterpart of these figures in the yacht - owning Dutch painter and the American girl, Pandora, who loved him enough to give up her life for him makes for a fascinating romantic drama laid against the color, pageantry and gypsy music of the Spanish scene.

James Mason offers a powerful and gripping performance in the dual role of the modern Dutchman aware of his fateful destiny and in the flashback scenes, of the historic sea captain of the legend. Ava Gardner, in the most demanding and dramatic role of her fast-rising career, is brilliantly effective as the American girl who exerts a fatal fascination upon almost every man who enters her life, and is compellingly beautiful in the superb Technicolor photography.

2 Precautionary Phases Are Told

In a communication from W. W. Pearce, Captain of U. S. Army Corps of Engineers with headquarters in Vicksburg, Miss., two precautionary phases in flood control and mobilization were defined for presentation before the public.

It was pointed out that mobilization will be effected in two phases, determined by gage heights, predictions of further sustained rise in sight, and upon orders of the District Engineer.

The communication stated that in the event of fast rising floods, typical in tributary streams, the time interval between phases will generally be reduced with the possibility of actual elimination of Phase I.

The two phases are defined as follows:

Phase I will consist of alerting all District personnel concerned in flood-fighting, review of each key man's assignment and the detailing of adequate forces to observe conditions of levees, structures, and caving banks. Such supervisory and technical personnel as necessary will be assigned to aid local interests in flood fighting activities.

Phase II will consist of establishment of sector headquarters, mobilization of skeleton forces to required strength as the flood develops. Skeleton forces will include District Office as well as field personnel.

Cary Grant, Betsy Drake Starred In Warner's 'Room For One More'

Hilarious Comedy Coming To Paramount Next Wednesday

Starring Cary Grant and Betsy Drake, "Room For One More," the heart - warming story adapted from the best-seller novel by Anna Perrott Rose, comes to the Paramount on Wednesday.

The story of a happy but zany couple who suddenly becomes involved wth a flock of family problems, "Room For One More" is one of Warner Bros.' top productions and has been heralded in advance as a great comedy with a few happy tears besides.

As an engineer working for the city, Cary is seen as a happy-go-lucky fellow who tries to maintain peace and harmony among the members of his household. However, due to the over-generosity of his well - meaning spouse, played by Miss Drake, Grant undergoes a series of madcap experiences which nearly cost him his job, but which at the climax bring him and his wife the prize of becoming the city's most honored couple. How all this is brought about, including all the attendant laughs and heart tugs of the not-so-average family situations, forms the background of "Room For One More."

For Mr. and Mrs. Cary Grant, the film gives one of Hollywood's most devoted and attractive couples in real life, an opportunity to add another great man-and-wife light comedy to their screen credits. Grant, of course, is a veteran of many such vehicles while Miss Drake, since her success with her husband in "Every Girl Should Be Married," had been urged on all sides to do another, and according to advance reports, "Room For One More" is it.

EVERYONE'S LAUGHING—BUT CARY!

happy picturehappy people. We predict this will be the new year's No. 1 maker of merriment - "Room for One More," starring Betsy Drake, Cary Grant and Iris Mann, comedy-drama, due at the Paramount Theatre Wednesday for four days.

'HONG KONG' IS PARAMOUNT FILM

Ronald Reagan And Rhonda Fleming Star In Story Of China

An arresting action drama laid in the turbulent China of today is tersely set forth in Paramount's "Hong Kong," which opens today at the Paramount Theatre. Filmed in Technicolor, this William Pine - William Thomas production stars Ronald Reagan and Rhonda Fleming, and introduces Danny Chang, an unusually refreshing four-year-old Chinese boy who almost toddles off with the picture.

The story deals with a callous drifter and a trim American miss who are thrown together in a desperate sprint from the war - torn interior to the sanctuary of Hong Kong. En route they act as parents pro tem to a young Chinese boy whose father has just been killed. When Reagan, as the money-hungry adventurer, finds out that the boy is carrying a valuable jeweled idol, he hatches a scheme to convert the statuette into personal cash.

After the dangerous trip to Hong Kong, he contacts a black marketeer, soon finds himself the Number One target for a band of cutthroats after the million - dollar trinket. After a series of murder attempts, the boy is kidnapped and held hostage for the idol. This nets some high - voltage episodes and an exciting climatic chase sequence that winds up on a sampan in the harbor.

All of this is spelled out in tense and telling fashion with the emphasis on action and suspense. With the exterior shots actually made on location in Hong Kong, the film uses the unique color and bustle of the city as an arresting canvas for the drama and derring-do of the story. Winston Miller's screenplay strikes a nice balance between romance and roguery, and Lewis R. Foster's direction keeps the excitement in high gear.

KINDERGARTEN IS CHURCH PLAN

First Baptist In West Monroe To Establish New School

In a recent church conference the First Baptist Church of West Monroe accepted a recommendation from the board of deacons that a kindergarten be established by the church. This Christian day school would enroll children of the pre-school age group, 4 and 5 years.

This action taken by the church is in response to the many requests made by the church families for such a school. Because most of the equipment needed for such an undertaking was already available in the newly erected educational building the deacons felt it would be profitable to use the facilities seven days rather than for the customary Sunday activities.

A special kindergarten committee has been appointed to study other schools of this type and will report its findings in the near future. Plans are being made to open the school in September when the parish schools are opened. The pastor, Rev. Jaroy Weber, advises that qualified personnel will be employed to direct the school and only the best in pre - school training with a Christian atmosphere will be offered.

Registration will begin in August after a formal announcement of the opening date.

WITH GUY LOMBARDO SHOW

Victor Lombardo, brother of Guy Lombardo and one of the nation's outstanding sax players, will be a featured artist with the Guy Lombardo show which will be presented at the Neville High School auditorium here on March 3 by the Lions club. Tickets are on sale at the Dew Music company. Fifty per cent of the tickets are still available.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Answer To Question No. 1

1. Yes, judging by a study made by psychologist Beth Wellman. She concluded that girls learn coordination earlier than boys and thus learn to button their clothes earlier. In simple motor tasks boys proved superior to girls, but in complicated tasks girls learned faster than boys. However, bathing suits, plunging necklines, and strapless gowns might indicate that many girls never learned buttoning.

Answer To Question No. 2

2. False. Farm boys know that certain animals fatten on less feed than others. We had a team of mules on our southern Indiana farm and no matter how much we fed Skeezer he was skin and bones, but we had to watch Jinny's rations or she'd get so fat she couldn't wobble. If you reduce your caloric intake, your weight will decrease, but some people's weight decreases more than others.

Answer To Question No. 3

3. It is doubtful. In an experiment psychologist L. W. Max fastened an electrical apparatus to the vocal cords of many persons. He found that even during dreams vocal cords were active. Some students are hoarse after taking a four - hour examination, showing they've been using their speech organs. One psychologist called this "sub - vocal" talking and argued that thought and sub-vocal talking are the same. Later evidence does not support this view. Talking is not thought and thought in not merely talking. Many people talk without thinking, but apparently you can't think without talking.

West opened the ten of clubs, and George Cardenas, playing the South hand, ruffed in his own hand. He next laid down the ace of spades, discovering the sad news about the trumps.

The bad trump break turned an easy hand into a very difficult problem. After some thought, Cardenas led a heart to dummy's ace, cashed the top clubs, and ruffed dummy's last club. He next led out the king and queen of hearts, discarding low diamonds from the dummy.

When declarer led the jack of hearts next, West did some thinking. If he discarded a diamond, dummy would also discard a low diamond, leaving just the blank ace in dummy. Declarer could then lead to the ace of diamonds, take the king of spades and lead a spade towards dummy. West therefore ruffed with a low trump to prevent dummy from discarding the last low diamond.

Cardenas over - ruffed in dummy drew another round of trump with the king, and then threw West into the lead with the queen of spades. This compelled West to lead away from his king of diamonds, allowing declarer to make the slam contract.

Q—The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 Heart	1 Spade	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass.

You, South, hold: Spades 9-4-2, Hearts 6-3, Diamonds Q-8-3, Clubs J-8-5-4-2. What do you do?

A—Bid two clubs. Your partner has doubled for a takeout, and you must respond in your best suit—such as it is. This is a routine response, and you do not show any strength whatever by bidding the clubs.

Today's Question

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades 6-3, Hearts 9-4-2, Diamonds 8-3, Clubs K-Q-J-5-4-2. What do you do?

COMING TO JOY SOON

Now hear this, says Jeanne Crain to Thelma Ritter, or model to marriage broker in "The Model and the Marriage Broker," Twentieth Century-Fox's bright and original comedy at the Joy Theatre soon, Scott Brady, the man in the picture, is in the middle in this one.

'The Model And Marriage Broker' Mixes Lonelyhearts And Laughs

Jeanne Crain And Scott Brady Star In Film Coming To Joy

How a marriage broker operates and her influence on the lives of those who enlist her services are explored with hilarious designs in "The Model and the Marriage Broker," a Twentieth Century-Fox comedy starring Jeanne Crain, Scott Brady and Thelma Ritter and coming to the Joy Theatre soon.

The side-splitting story revolves around the maneuverings of Miss Ritter as the marriage broker who devotes her life to finding mates for lonely individuals who cannot solve their romantic perplexities. As the model, Miss Crain emerges as a svelte, sophisticated young lady who gets involved by accident with the lonely-hearts entrepreneur and finds romance made-to-order for her with Scott Brady For Brady, his role as an x-ray technician opens up an entirely new screen career for him and gives him an opportunity to demonstrate his comedy talents. Previously, he has appeared almost exclusively in police officer or gangster portrayals.

In the supporting cast, which Director George Cukor has used to create this comical piece of Americana, are Michael O'Shea, as the pinochle - playing friend of Miss Ritter; Zero Mostel, a love-frustrated optometrist; Frank Fontaine, a shy Swede seeking a mate; John Alexander in the role of a wealthy rancher seeking to marry off five daughters; Dennie Moore, a former Follies star, in the role of a woman in search of a husband for her homely sister-in-law; Nancy Kulp as an old maid hunting a spouse; Helen Ford and Jay C. Flippen.

"The Model and the Marriage Broker" is Charles Brackett's initial production for Twentieth Century - Fox after having served in a smiliar capacity for Paramount Pictures for seventeen years. He also handled the writing job on this comedy along with Walter Reisch and Richard Breen. The producer placed his marriage broker in New York, considered by many as the "loneliest city in the world," and much of the action in the picture takes place in the broker's office in the Flatiron building and in her modest flat on the west side.

In addition to being a highly polished comedy, "The Model and the Marriage Broker" also displays the most glamorous and extensive wardrobe ever created for Miss Crain. As a manneqin in Russek's department store in New York in the picture, Miss Crain wears many diaphanous negligees as well as an array of chic street frocks.

From the twelfth century children have been learning to repeat this prayer of faith. Back of that are the other centuries when families quoted the 121st. Psalm from which it was doubtless taken . . .

"Your Guardian will not slumber
He will neither slumber nor sleep."

Precious children know so little of what the world holds of joy and of sorrow, of foes and of friends, of sickness and of health, of defeat and of triumph. Perhaps they have mother and father now and every care for happiness. Who knows what tomorrow holds for them?

Wise and thoughtful for all the years ahead are the parents who early teach their children that Jesus died on the cross to save the world from sin and that only through his loving forgiveness are our sins washed away. Some day every boy and girl will have to stand alone; will they have the knowledge of The Savior and the strength of will to stand up for the right?

Every child born into God's world has a right to know that God is creator of Heaven and earth. Every human being has a right to know that he is made in the image of God and that "God gave his only begotten Son that whoever believeth in Him shall not perish but have everlasting life." (John 3:16) Every child has a right to live reverently as in the continuing and blessed fellowship with the Highest. Teach him to say, "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep. If I die before I wake, I pray the Lord my soul to take."

MRS. BELLAMY TO GET AWARD

Will Receive Silver Star For Husband Killed In Korean War

Mrs. Frances Bellamy of Oak Ridge, La. is to be presented the Silver Star of her husband, Major Freeling W. Bellamy, who was killed in action in Korea.

Major Bellamy's unit, the ninth regiment was sent into action between Yongsan and Changyong on August 8, 1951, and on August 12, while leading his company in the battle for Clover Leaf Hill, Major Bellamy's company encountered the enemy who were throwing hand grenades. As one was about to explode into a group of his men, Major Bellamy jumped out in front and received the full blast of the grenade. He lived about twenty minutes after the explosion. Before he died he said to his men, "take the hill." They did.

Major Bellamy was born January 27, 1913, at Smithville, Ark. and was reared at Sarasota, Fla.

In 1941 he was married to Miss Frances Kennedy of Oak Ridge, La. He is survived by his wife and one son, Jay Freeling, of Oak Ridge two brothers, R. B. Bellamy of Detroit, and J. J. Freeling of Smithville, Arkansas.

Major Bellamy entered the service in 1940 at Camp Livingston, Louisiana. From there he went to officers' candidate school at Fort Benning, Georgia, where he was commissioned in January 1941.

In World War II he fought in the Battle of the Bulge, the Colmar Pocket, and other major battles. He received the Bronze Star Medal and two Presidential Citations for meritorious service while in action. He was commanding officer of Co. B, 290th Rgt. 75th infantry division at that time.

Mrs. Frances Bellamy will be presented the Silver Star Medal posthumously at Northeast Louisiana State College on Wednesday, February 20th, at 9:45 o'lcock a. m. by Colonel George W. Trousdale, assistant division commander of the 39th Louisiana National Guard, Infantry Division.

There will be a full dress parade of the entire R.O.T.C. cadet corps who will also comprise the honor guard.

The presentation is to be held in the Northeast Louisiana State College Stadium. The public is invited.

U. S. weather maps are prepared from information obtained by telegraph and radio from hundreds of weather stations in the United States, Canada and other points.
